Local briefs

Local election results were not available at press-time yesterday, so the Associated Newspapers' editorial staff will be ready Wednesday morning to provide subscribers by telephone any and all local results to those who are interested.

Persons who wish to obtain the unofficial election tally may do so by telephoning the news desk at 729-4000 before noon.

There will be a complete election analysis by our ANP staff in next week's edition.

Although Romulus High junior football player Doug Baum Jr. sustained a neck injury during Friday night's game between Romulus High and Dearborn Heights Ann Arbor, Doug Baum Sr. wants friends and fans to know that his son is doing well.

Rumor had it that Doug was paralyzed, Mr. Baum said. That isn't true. He did sustain a broken neck, but factors have told us that our son will mend in time. We just don't want parents to panic and take their kids out of the sport because of the injury to our son."

Wayne County Community College nursing students will be available from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., Thurs. Nov. 5 to assess blood pressure for community residents, students and faculty at the Western Region Center, located at 9820 Haggerty Road in Van Buren Township.

Donations for the blood pressure check will be submitted as part of college-wide funds to the 1981 United Torch Drive.

For further information, telephone Sharon Young at 699-0200, extension 1019.

The real queen

Mix-ups do occur and last week's edition of the Romulus Roman carried an erroneous identification of Romulus High's Homecoming Queen. The regalia honor does belong to Jennifer Lynn Mitton (above) whose name appeared with the incorrect photo. Miss Mitton, a senior, lists her accomplishments as belonging to the coveted National Honor Society (secretary), vice-president of Student Council, varsity cheerleader (co-captain), Yearbook Editor, and she is also a member of the Varsity Track Team. Jennifer is the daughter of Lawrence and Blanche Mitton and has an older sister, Kathy, 22, who resides in Lake Park, Fla. Now if only the Eagles could win this week's football game against highly-regarded Ypsilanti, all will be well with the Queen and her court.

No tainted treats in this area

It was a Halloween where even the weatherman cooperated.

And it was a pleasure, according to local police officers, to work the evening.

"We had no tainted treats pop up in our city," Romulus Police Chief Don Flood said. "Needless to say we're very happy about it. In fact, Halloween and the traditional nuisance, Devil's Night, were relatively calm around here.

"I feel that one of the reasons for this is that parents and kids are being cautioned in their schools and their newspapers to beware of any foreign or suspicious articles and that has helped control this," Chief Flood added.

In recent years an alarming number of tainted treats were appearing among the candy and fruits children received during their trick to homes.

However, Chief Flood again cautioned that "most of the candies are still in bags. Parents should always check to make sure that candies have not been tampered with before giving them to their children."

Council to resume cable TV debate

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If cable TV is as suspenseful and exciting as last week's special City Council meeting, then you better line up to subscribe immediately.

Council took up the issue of awarding the franchise to one of three competing companies, but before council members were able to debate the issues, they heard Dr. Tom Muth chastise one of the firms for prematurely advertising excerpts of what the consultants said was a "confidential report".

The advertisement, a full-page ad taken out in the Romulus Roman, pointed out the advantages Comcast Cable Company held over its two competing firms - Barden and Omnicom/Bell. The ad quoted what "Elra Group, Inc., reported in their Preliminary Analysis of Proposals for Cable Television Service for the City of Romulus."

Elra Group is a cable TV consultants' group based in East Lansing. The city had hired the firm to evaluate the proposals submitted by the three rival firms.

Dr. Tom Muth, representing Elra, said that he felt that the advertisement violated the confidentiality of the preliminary analysis.

"It is not in the spirit of the submission of the preliminary report that an advertisement quoting from the preliminary report be used," said Dr. Muth told council. "I will say no more."

But Dr. Muth did. He went on to chastise Comcast for using the information that was a preliminary one, pointing out "that on the second page of the report it clearly stated that the report is preliminary and confidential."

"As to the letter of whether the letter of confidence of the proposal evaluating the over-all process has been violated is a question at this point, I believe you, the council, may want to consider with other

Faust warns that state won't bail-out ailing school districts

On the simple principle that "if you do it for the state, you do it for all" State Rep. Edward Faust warned school district educators that Michigan can't bail out financially distressed districts.

Speaking to the Romulus Board of Education and area residents last week, Faust said that the schools "must solve their own problems and find remedies to cure their financial woes because there are too numerous districts in trouble — and the state can't solve all their fiscal problems."

Faust was one of a host of local and state dignitaries who attended an "Open Forum" organized by the Romulus Board of Education and Supt. of Schools William Bedell. Romulus is mired in $3 million debt and the school district hopes to resolve some of its financial problems by a unique school bond proposal.

If given voter approval, the school district will put up for sale $3 million in bonds to pay off an accumulated four-year budget deficit. According to school officials, the average cost to the taxpayer will be 50 cents per week.

However, if the voters reject the proposal, school officials said they have no alternative but to shut down the school district in 10 weeks. Teachers have been notified of the proposed board action.

Along with Faust, the list of dignitaries who took part in the forum included State Rep. Edward Mahalak, Richard Kelly, of the State Board of Education, and members of the local board of education.

Although Faust said he could sympathize with the residents of Romulus, he pointed out that many schools across the state were teetering on the brink of financial disaster, and that Romulus wasn't a unique or isolated case.

There are at least six school districts — Alpena, Pontiac, Taylor, Harper Creek, Lincoln Park and Romulus — that are in the midst of a struggle to come up with some sort of tax reform package, and added that "tax reform seems to mean tax relief. I feel it's essential, even crucial, that the legislators address themselves to the high property tax."

One of the reasons why the state can't come to the rescue of school districts is that is (Michigan) is also in deep financial trouble. The collapse of the auto industry has had its domino effect on the economy and with Gov. Milliken's recent request of budget cuts to the tune of $270 million, including $15 million from

K-12 programs in the near future.

Kelly told the audience that the state board "put together legislation to make the bond issue possible and we hope your voters feel positive."

But, the panel also pointed out that one of the reasons why school districts are having problems convincing residents to pass millages is "that only 27 percent of the taxpayers have children in grades K-12 in Michigan."

"Couples with children going to school nowadays are in the minority and the dismal economic weather compounds the problem — true, the state Constitution says we should provide education for our kids — 180 days of it — but it doesn't say what we can do when the school districts don't have the money."

Chalk one up for Romulus teachers

While they await the outcome of the bond issue, Romulus teachers won a court battle to receive delayed salary increases.

Supt. of Schools William Bedell has refused to give the teachers scheduled pay increases, arguing that the state law prohibits a school district with a deficit to increase wages and salaries until the deficit is dissipated.

Bedell's "wage freeze" didn't receive any sympathy from Wayne County Circuit Judge William Cahalan who issued a bench opinion directing the school district to comply with provisions it agreed to in their contract with the teacher group.

The suit was filed by the Michigan Education Association on behalf of the teachers who are in the third year of a three year contract.

Judge Cahalan ruled that compensation payable to the Romulus teachers under the contract provisions for 1981-82 be paid as follows:

Until November 3, 1981, teachers shall be compensated at the 1980-81 rates. If the Nov. 3 bond issue fails, the teachers shall be paid back at the 1981-82 rates on the first regular pay following Nov. 3.

If the November 3 bond issue passes, the teachers shall be paid back pay with interest as soon thereafter as the board of education obtains funds pursuant to the Bond issue, either by anticipating borrowing or tax levy, but in no event later than January 15, 1982. From the time of payment forward, teachers must be paid at the contracted 1981-82 rates.

Popular educator-coach succumbs to cancer

Ed Baum is dead at the age of 57

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Ed Baum was more than just an athletic director at the local high school. He was a friend who was always willing to listen to anyone with a problem and lend a sympathetic ear.

Now, at age 57, he has left the scene. Mr. Baum died last week after a lingering illness of more than three years. And he will be greatly missed.

"Ed was a friend you could go to with your problems and he was always willing to sit down and try to help you," said Al Wilkerson, present varsity basketball coach at Romulus High School, who worked with Baum a long time.

Several coaches, other school personnel and community leaders expressed sadness over the death of a man who was well loved by many in Romulus.

Mr. Baum died last Wednesday at Harper Grace Hospital in Detroit and funeral services were conducted Saturday at St. Alfred's Church in Taylor by the Rev. Fr. Ronald Victor. Interment was at Our Lady of Hope Cemetery in Brownstown.

Handling the funeral services was Baum Funeral Home in Romulus. Director Doug Baum is no relation to Ed, but knew him well and admired him for his extensive involvement in Rotary Club and other community affairs.

"Ed was a man who did a lot for Romulus and for Taylor," Baum said. "He gave freely of his time to help others and will be greatly missed."

Baum described the late athletic director as "a man you don't appreciate enough while he's here and can never replace when he's gone."

Edward M. Baum Jr. was born Aug. 11, 1924 in Monroe and graduated from Monroe High School. He attended Eastern Michigan University, where he played football, and later did graduate work at the University of Michigan.

He served with the Army Corps of Engineers under General George Patton in World War II.

After his discharge, he was married on July 17, 1948 in Rodgers City, Mich.

Mr. Baum came to Romulus High School in 1957 and was head coach for varsity track and cross country teams and was assistant coach for the varsity football squad. He was named athletic director in 1964 and served in that capacity 13 years. In 1976 he became assistant principal of South Junior High, a position he held until the present.

Mr. Baum joined the Romulus Rotary Club in 1963 and was elected President in 1972. In spring of 1981 he was given the Paul Harris Fellowship Award, the highest honor accorded to Rotarians.

He was very active in other community affairs, both in Taylor, where he lived, and in Romulus where he worked.

He organized the first Parent Booster Club in Romulus and was instrumental in organizing several little league programs in Taylor.

Mr. Baum was a member of the Michigan Athletic Directors' Association and the Michigan Association of School Administrators.

Survivors include his wife, Naomi, and children, Michael Baum of Taylor; Mrs. John (Deborah) Starling of Midland; William Baum of Taylor; Mrs. Richard (Brenda) Miller of Dearborn; Mrs. Anthony (Sandra) Mann of Taylor and Gregory Baum of Taylor; a sister, Mrs. James (Marguerite) Morgan of Ohio and eight grandchildren.

Board rejects landfill's expansion application

Trustees cite dangers to residents, surrounding communities

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Canton Township Board, responding to an overwhelming preponderance of evidence given against the expansion of Woodland Meadows Landfill, voted 7-0 Tuesday night to reject its application for a 105-acre expansion.

Canton Planner Jim Kosteva, following the recommendation of the Planning Commission and adding research data of his own department, submitted eight exhibits into the record against expanding the landfill.

Also voicing objections at Tuesday night's meeting were John Zech, community development director of Wayne, a representative of a home builder, and numerous residents from Canton and bordering communities.

After Kosteva gave his detailed explanations why the application for permit, special approval and site plan approval should not be given, Zech walked to the microphone.

"Mr. Kosteva seems to have expressed most of our concerns in the City of Wayne," Zech began, "and we wish to concur with the Canton Planner's comments."

Zech said the existing 79-acre landfill causes enough problems for the residents on the east side of Hannan Road on the far western edge of the city of Wayne. "There are 150 homes in Wayne in close proximity to the landfill," he said they have to put up with odor, debris, noise, mud in the road from trucks and various other nuisances.

Zech said the landfill expansion "is not in the best interests of the citizens of surrounding communities. The Board room at Canton Township Hall was well-filled, containing residents from Canton, Wayne, Romulus and Van Buren. All these communities are adjacent to the landfill site and are affected by it.

The vast majority of the audience was comprised of Wayne residents, who are the most affected by the landfill. Zech was speaking on their behalf as well as for the City Council, he said.

"You have a landfill ordinance and the landfill owners want to alter several parts of the ordinance," Zech said. "We would like to work with you in the future as you deal with hazardous waste materials."

7-month pregnant woman is murdered in her home

Inkster police have intensified their search for a man who bludgeoned to death a seven-month pregnant woman last week.

Tracie Belton, 18, of 2925 Harrison, and unborn child, were dead at the scene of the victim's home. Police said the murderer used a hammer to inflict the fatal blows.

"This is one of the most brutal cases I have ever investigated," said Inkster Det. Sgt. James Buckley, "and we'd appreciate any information about the person or persons who committed this crime."

The victim was struck over the head several times with the hammer which was left at the scene, according to police reports.

Anyone with any information about the homicide should contact Det. Sgt. Buckley at 561-4510.

Benefit is big success

The results of a spontaneous outpouring of love are still coming in for a needy Romulus family.

More than $2,000 has been donated to help the family of Kenny Muggleberg, 15, whose father has been sick and unable to work most of this year.

Several Romulus elected officials and city hall employees were joined by Huron Township people to hold a Roast Pig Benefit dinner to raise money for the needy Muggleberg family. Once the project got started, it mushroomed with people joining in unselfishly from all areas of the community.

The benefit was held Oct. 26 at Orchard Grove Inn, 19110 Middlebelt Road in Huron Township and the results were amazing — even to those who felt it would be a success.

"I can't believe the response of all the people, it was just fantastic," said Betsy Brown, deputy city treasurer and one of the guiding forces behind the benefit. "The thing just mushroomed and everybody pitched in and worked for nothing, including the employees at Orchard Grove Inn. It was the most satisfying project I've ever taken part in," she said.

The benefit was to help young Kenny Muggleberg, who has a brain tumor. The medical expenses have been extremely high and Romulus people wanted to pitch in and help. Mr. Muggleberg suffered a heart attack in January, later worked two weeks and then took ill. He had kidney surgery that kept him home recuperating until he returned to work in September.

Mrs. May Muggleberg is extremely grateful for the outpouring of love shown to Kenny, who has a brother Billy, 9, and four older sisters.

"I don't exactly know how to put it into words, but we appreciate all the love and concern that the people have shown to our family," Mrs. Muggleberg said. "This city has a fine group of people and I don't even know who all was involved in the benefit party. We just want to thank everyone who had a part in helping us so much — we appreciate it more than we can say," she said.

Mrs. Muggleberg said the Oct. 26 benefit had special meaning because it came on her youngest son's ninth birthday.

Chrissi Francis, an employee of Orchard Grove Inn, was one of the persons most responsible for organizing the benefit party. "Everything was donated, the food — a $25 pig and all the trimmings... everything was paid for. All the money went directly to the family and it was a very gratifying experience for all of us who took part and gave of our time. We received far more than we gave, believe me," she said.

Kenny is home from the hospital now and is feeling better, his mother said. "However, he has developed a kidney stone and doctors are waiting to see if it dissolves. He has finished his radiation therapy and we won't know the results of that until they do a CAT scan in a month or two," she said.

A special checking account has been set up at Manufacturers Bank in Romulus for the Muggleberg family. Those who want to donate money may contact the bank, or call Blondie Shelton of the Kwik-Helpers Club at 941-3551 for information.

Kwik Helpers CB Club, along with the Romulus Fire Department and Emergency Network CB Club has scheduled another fund-raiser on Nov. 21. It will be a dance at the Progressive Hall on Ozga Road at Five Points in Romulus.

Kenneth Muggleberg Sr. is a volunteer fireman.

"It just goes to show what can be accomplished for good when everybody pitches in unselfishly and works together to help someone," said one person who worked on the project.

A helping hand

When news spreads in the city and the area that 13-year-old Kenny Muggleberg had a brain tumor and that the family was in dire need of financial assistance so that he could get proper medical attention, the city responded and last week raised $2,000 to help defray hospital costs. Above, (top photo) are Irene Patterson, Shirley Arthur, Gloria Begeman, Beverly McAnnally, Chrissi Francis and Theresa Banderzewski, owner of Orchard Grove Inn in Huron Township. Mrs. Banderzewski donated the food and her restaurant to stage a "pig roast" for the teen-ager and also preparing food (center) are Bill Reinhold, Louie Gilstorf, Tommy Chiles and Arie Francis who got up at 4 a.m. to prepare the food for a score of residents including Romulus Mayor William Oakley (immediately above), Huron Township clerk, Mary Lou Carey (standing) and Mrs. Oakley.

A corsage for a lady

Romulus Councilman Fred 'Junior' Block presents Mrs. Theresa Banderzewski, owner of the Orchard Grove Inn, 19110 Middlebelt, during a benefit dinner for Kenny Muggleberg of Romulus who is tricken with a brain tumor. Councilman Block said Mrs. Banderzewski offered her restaurant's facilities and food to help raise the money for Kenny who has been in-and-out of hospitals for the past six months for treatments. The proceeds from the benefit will go toward hospital costs.

members of city government." Donald Ivy, vice-president Comcast, who also authorized the advertisement to be placed in the local newspaper, said that he didn't know that the report from Elra was confidential.

"Believe me," Ivy told council, "it is a sincere and honest mistake. I would not have placed this ad if I knew the report was confidential."

Council postponed making decision on awarding the franchise until Thursday night when it will again meet in a special meeting at 7 p.m. to resume talks.

All three competing firms were allowed to make 45-minute presentations before council. There were only a handful of local residents in the audience.

At stake is a franchise that will enable the successful cable company to build a system for approximately 7,800 homes. One of the problems the companies will face is Metropolitan Airport which bisects this community of approximately 28,000 residents.

Pete Newell, who heads up the operation for OMNIBELL in Michigan, said that the parent company, Capitol Cities, had the experience and the money to construct the best system. He said the OMNIBELL is presently building cable systems for Belleville, Canton and is presently in operation in Plymouth.

Comcast vice president Edward McGuire pointed out that his company started building cable TV systems 20 years ago and "is one of the grandfathers of the industry and is presently one of the largest companies in the country."

"My company has never lost a franchise that it has been awarded," McGuire stressed.

Barden, Cablevision was represented by its president, Don H. Barden, who is coming off of successful bids for the franchises in Inkster and Royal Oak.

Barden also attacked the advertisement, pointing out that the information contained in the preliminary analysis was incomplete. He said that the ad misled the readers and hoped that no conclusions were drawn from it without a complete report.

"We are a young and minority-owned company," Barden said, "and we believe that we can build a cable TV system that this city can be proud of."

Beverly McAnnally, city treasurer who also served on the Cable TV committee, said she was disappointed that all three cable TV rates were "rather high."

"Having served on the cable TV committee," Mrs. McAnnally pointed out, "and having helped to draft the request for proposals and the proposed ordinance, I feel that the proposed rates are too high and I am disappointed at the rates they (the firms) presented."

"Moreover, the cable TV committee didn't load a lot of extras and charges that we knew had to be passed on to the public, so we anticipated much lower rates as a result."

Councilman Fred 'Junior' Block said he felt that all three firms made good presentations.

"It's going to be a very hard decision for Council to make," Block said. He added that he had not seen the controversial advertisement prior to the meeting, "but, again, I would like to meet with our consultants and the attorneys for further information before I make up my mind."

Watch portable heaters

Portable heaters may be a blessing when it comes to cutting energy costs, but they are a potential fire hazard.

Canton firefighters issued this week a "caution" to homeowners using the heaters. Here is that warning:

"Due to the dramatic rise in home heating costs, many households are using portable kerosene and propane heaters for supplemental heat. These heaters are usually used to heat certain occupied portion of the home, while the remainder of the home is maintained at a lower temperature. The Canton Fire Prevention Bureau would like to caution you that the use of these heaters could be dangerous."

"The use of portable LP-Gas (propane) heaters for supplemental heat is prohibited by the Michigan Liquefied Petroleum Gases Regulations. During the past several years the State Police Fire Marshal has investigated incidents involving explosions resulting from propane containers being inside the home."

"Whenever portable kerosene heaters are used, the following safety precautions should be observed:

- Contact your local Building Department to determine if use of the heater is allowed by code.
- If permitted by the building code, only kerosene heaters which have been approved by a nationally recognized testing laboratory, such as U.L., may be used.

'Brown beauty'

Mar-afic, with Lee Mancini in the saddle, captured two first places recently at the Arkansas All-Arab and Ohio Buckeye competitions, then the Arabian stallion, owned by Belleville's Harry and Jane Martin of Har-Mar-Kim Farm went on to claim the Top 10 Stock Horse award at the U. S. Nationals staged in Albuquerque, New Mexico. His trainer and rider is Mancini of Mancini Training Center in Flat Rock. There were 1,500 entries in the nationals from throughout the United States and 50 horses were entered in the stock class. Mar-afic is the only horse selected in his class who resides east of the Mississippi. The Martins have owned Mar-afic since he was 6-months old. He is now seven years and when the horse was a 2-year-old colt he was shot by a rifle while out in the pasture.

Several stitches were required to close the wound and police never found the culprit who was responsible for the shooting, but it didn't stop Mar-afic to becoming one of the top horses in his class in the nation.

Airport stirs up another bill

Business establishments located within five miles of an international airport would be exempt from state liquor license quotas under legislation introduced by Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland).

"Restaurants, hotels and bars located near a major international airport often account for a local government's total allotment of liquor licenses," said Faust, who introduced the legislation at the request of Romulus Mayor William Oakley. "Although these businesses primarily serve people coming and going at the airport, they are granted liquor licenses based on the population of the town where they are located."

Faust said the City of Romulus is a victim of this inequitable allocation procedure, with many of the city's liquor licenses going to businesses that cater to customers boarding and deplaning at nearby Metropolitan Airport.

"This unfairly penalizes the residents and business community of Romulus because it results in a shortage of liquor licenses for restaurants and hotels operating in other parts of the community," Faust said.

"We don't want to take any services away from the millions of persons who board and deplane at Metropolitan Airport each year," Oakley said, "but making additional licenses available would help the economy of our city by encouraging the opening of new hotels and restaurants."

Faust pointed out that resort communities are granted additional liquor licenses to help businesses and foster economic growth in major tourist areas.

"My bill would provide the same consideration for businesses serving airport customers," Faust said. "Furthermore, it would give a boost to economic expansion in Romulus and thereby provide additional revenues that help pay for city services that benefit all residents of the community."

Child care providers scrounge around for funds

Members of Wayne County's Human Resources Committee met with Dr. John Dempsey, Director of the State Department of Social Services Wednesday in an attempt to resolve a cash flow problem that has left child care providers throughout this area without funds since August 1st.

Although Constantine Stathos, Director of the County's Budget and Finance Division, presented a three-part program for relieving the situation, Dempsey's only comment was that "he's looking into it." Observers said the meeting produced nothing that would immediately solve the financial chaos being faced by Foster Care mothers and agencies that look after some 2,700 youngsters in Wayne County.

Child Care Providers have already issued an ultimatum: either send money or we'll return the youngsters.

Dempsey, Robert Little, Director of the Wayne County Office of the State DSS, and Stathos have agreed to meet in an effort to iron out difficulties leading to the financial mix-up. The County and State share expenses equally.

The problem began when the State Legislature established a limit (cap) in mid-year on the amount of money the State Department of Social Services could spend for child care. Wayne County was not notified of this limitation and continued to pay its share to maintain the normal level of care the State DSS had programmed prior to the 'cap.' When the State exhausted its fund August 1st, Wayne County, with its own budget running a deficit, was asked to pay all of the expenses through the end of the fiscal year. When, financially-strapped foster care parents and agencies began complaining to county commissioners that they were not being paid, Commissioner Kay Beard's Human Resources Committee began its investigation that lead to Wednesday's confrontation with Dempsey.

Stathos claims the State was late in tabulating a county payment last year of $383,000 and included it in this year's appropriation making it appear the state had already contributed its share of the annual costs when in reality it was $383,000 shy.

Under the present procedure, the state sends the local office of the DSS enough funds to pay the child providers. A report of these expenditures, based on a per-day rate, is sent to the county; the county, in turn, submits its 50 percent share back to the state. It was the late tabulation by the state of one of last year's reimbursements that created the current financial crunch.

Stathos proposes (1) that the state pays promptly billings submitted for state wards that are temporarily housed in the Wayne County Youth Home, (2) that, under the provisions of child care statutes, the State DSS could excuse the county from making payments for charge-backs for county youths housed in state institutions, and (3) that the state not use the $383,000 roll over in the 1980-81 budget cap, but, rather use it as a charge to the county as an amount due in 1979-80.

County Corporation Counsel George Cross, who also attended the meeting, said he felt the state was circumventing the Headlee Amendment by cutting back its funding of local programs and forcing local units of government to pay (Continued On Page A-8)

IRRIGATING DEVICES

Recently, the water pick or oral irrigating device has become popular. How do they work? The water pick cleans teeth by irrigation with tiny jets of pulsating water which clean around the gums, between the teeth and under bridges where the toothbrush and even floss sometimes cannot reach. The pulsating water jets, flush out food particles from difficult-to-reach spots where food collects.

The dental irrigator is not recommended for small children, but for children over 12 years with orthodontic bands, the device is invaluable in flushing out food particles.

Some dentists have reservations about the use of a water pick depending on the condition of your teeth and gums, so it might be wise to check with your dentist who is familiar with your particular condition before buying one. In any case, remember that water picks do not remove plaque — only food. So, it is to be used as a part — not as your whole cleansing process.

Our Opinions

Van Buren group should throw away petitions

Sometimes — most of the time — we don't understand people. PICTURE THIS — a group of people fighting to get something like a full-time police force, gathering signatures and imploring everyone to rally around them so that they can raise taxes 3 mills to reach their goal.

Then, someone comes up with the solution without raising taxes — does his homework, finds a solution to the problem. But the group isn't satisfied. They continue to fight.

That's what the situation is in Van Buren Township. A group, known as "Citizens for a Full-Time Police Force" has been petitioning the township board for a 24-hour police department. The crisis arose when the courts ruled that Sheriff William Lucas must pull his troops out of this community because the county commissioners refused to fund the service.

Abandoned, no one could blame the residents to look for police protection elsewhere; especially since Van Buren, like many communities in these western parts of the county, has part-timers.

But shoeless intellectuals apparently don't read newspapers. Van Buren Police Commissioner Tom Welty forged a 24-hour police force from his existing staffers and enlisted some reserve troops, and all he's getting are caustic smiles from the residents for his capable maneuvering.

Gratitude, huh!

Ironically, Welty has accomplished this feat without a tax hike — just by shifting and switching personnel around.

What we would advise for the "Citizens for a 24-hour Police Force in Van Buren" is to toss their petitions in the nearest trash can.

And would someone pin a medal on Police Commissioner Welty's chest?

He deserves one.

To the victors...

The elections are over and wasn't it Andy Jackson who bluntly stated that "To the victor goes the spoils."

That may be true, however, we hope that the victors don't spoil it by dividing the communities further apart than they are. It is a time for all those who worked against one another to work together.

These are trying times - times when leaders should be made to lift our citizens from the economic and social depressions that we feel history may record as "our worst of times."

To the victors - lead us. We put you in office because we believe in you. Now show us that your political promises weren't only banter.

A community helps itself

A community is a town where people work with their neighbors to make the quality of everyone's life better.

Romulus is a community which is doing just that. In this day of inflation, unemployment, and near depression, Romulus schools are on the brink of closing its doors because the district must pay a $3 million deficit with money it doesn't have. The school district's attempt to rescue itself is wrapped up in a package called a bond issue. This will enable the district to remain solvent during the 1981-82 school year and give it a chance to get the money to operate next September and possibly restore some of the programs which were cut.

The district's problems began surfacing about five years ago and have escalated by the same factors which affect everyone's personal budget—inflation, over-estimated and reduced income, high interest rates, inability to borrow money, and other factors, such as reduced enrollment, executive order, SEV (State Equalized Value—when increased property tax results in an equal amount of decreased state aid) and defeat of millage requests.

How is the community helping itself? People became concerned about the future. A Citizens' Advisory Committee was formed to work with the School Board.

Many areas of education were looked into and committees were formed to explore ways to cut expenses. The school budget was examined and many areas were reduced or cut out. The City of Romulus and the School Board jointly sued Metropolitan Airport to obtain money for their loss of taxes resulting from the Airport's use of property which could go to the City.

The "Our Community Counts Committee" was formed to get the Community to stand behind its schools. The School Board members and Superintendent made numerous trips to Lansing to work with Legislators on school funding problems.

Most recently, Citizens for Education was formed to get more information to the community about the severity of the school crisis. Their next goal is to go to Lansing as a group of concerned citizens to meet Legislators and to tell them that Romulus does not intend to remain quiet any longer.

Its citizens insist on action on the school funding issue and will not wait until many more school districts lock their doors to get the rules changed.

This community is strong in spite of many problems because of the clubs, businessmen, parents, Scouts, PTA's, church leaders, teachers, city officials, senior citizens, administrators, and just plain people are putting their time, energy, money, and faith on the line.

No one wants to see the quality of education eroded or the intellectual growth of children stunted by school closings. Romulus will continue to be a good place to live and bring up children.

Farmland brochure biased

Attorney General Frank Kelly has just ruled that it is a violation of State Law to use Public Money and Employees to support a Ballot Referendum.

He said the 1976 Statute prohibits Public Employees from engaging in campaign activities "during those hours when that person is being compensated for the performance of that person's duties as a Public Employee."

That is exactly what the Canton Township employees and officials are doing with "The Farmland Brochure".

They are doing this despite advice to the contrary from Counsel and in direct opposition from Township Supervisor James Poole.

Further, the brochure is inaccurate and biased. The brochure does not give this figure of $18.5 million. This is inaccurate and misleading.

Proponents give the millage increase rate of 1.16 mills. This is an average, and it may go as high as 1.85 mills increase. This is misleading.

Further, the resolution allows millage increases "without limitation as to rate or amount".

If the Legislature raises the interest ceiling in Michigan, as they are presently proposing in Lansing, the Bonds could go for more than 13 percent interest, and as a result the millage could go through the roof.

The biased brochure does not mention this and is almost sure to bring a lawsuit which we, as Canton Township Taxpayers, will have to pay for out of Tax Funds.

We're proud of our kids

When something distasteful happens in our society the news media are quick to condemn the entire society or groups of people.

Yet, when something nice happens very little or nothing is said about it.

We believe or hope, they the news media, are aware of the wrong doing of an individual or some small attention seeking group does not represent our true society.

Yes even in Wayne, our young people are "looked down upon".

We parents are so perfect that we cannot see the good qualities in our young people.

Members of the Wayne Post of the American Legion toured the city of Wayne on Sunday, Nov. 1, the day after Halloween, and were very pleased to learn that our young people did not inflict any speakable damage to the property of the Wayne citizens.

The American Legion is proud of our young people. With children like those in Wayne, America need not fear for its future. They will protect it.

Folks helping folks

By TOM MOORADIAN

There is a lot of love in men like Fred Block. He's a councilman out in Romulus — a big burly sort of man who has spent most of his life on a farm. There are deep wrinkles on his face. He's an old-fashioned American who has been hardened by some 55 years of life.

And when he and his colleagues learned that 13-year-old Kenny Muggleberg was battling a brain tumor and that the young Romulus lad's parents just didn't have the money for the long hospital stay and treatment, Block got things going.

He organized a benefit for the stricken boy and "it seemed like everyone in Romulus and Huron Township showed up to help out."

Waitresses at Orchard Grove Inn in New Boston, members of City Council and "just folks" showed up to contribute their dollars and cents.

"We had a simple saying — 'Eat until it hurts, give until it hurts'," Block said.

After all of the eating was over with, the Mugglebergs had $2,000 to help defray the costs of the doctor's bills.

"You know this one guy came into the restaurant and we began talking and he asked me what was going on and I explained."

The stranger then took out $25 and handed it to Block and said, "Hey, I wish the kid well. He needs it more than I do."

And that's the kind of people there are out there. It's too bad that most of the "bad news" has to muscle its way on the pages of newspapers and tabloids.

Sometimes — just sometimes — stories like these make the news.

Unlike winning streaks, rules aren't made to be broken.

A rule is a rule is a rule, and some of the coaches in the Wayne-Westland Community School District are justifiably angry.

Their anger stems from an incident involving two students who were reportedly drunk; one showing up in class in that inebriated state.

The teacher immediately ordered the student to report to "the office" and most of us know what that means. He did and was immediately suspended from classes, along with one of his classmates.

However, both students are excellent athletes and the two were scheduled to run in the state finals. Although the coach understood that the punishment fit "the crime", somewhere along the chain of bureaucratic commend, these two were given permission to rejoin their teammates and compete in the state finals.

We feel that that was a grave and ponderously inappropriate way to deal with anyone who doesn't respect his school or his team or his coach.

We feel that the administrative decision — and it had to come from pretty far above — was a "bad one."

A rule is a rule is a rule.

If the rule is there it is for everyone. And should not bend — for anyone.

Don't pity your ailing county-help it

By BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

There's some good news from the front line in the revolution brewing between the nation's federal, state, and local governments.

Counties, once merely administrative arms of states, have become the most rapidly changing form of government. They are making progressive, money-saving innovations that are the direct result of fiscal stress.

Confronted with drastic reduction in state and federal aid, counties that formerly refused to update antiquated systems — for political convenience — are forced to change.

Sometimes it takes crisis to generate action:

Three years ago Simpson County

Miss. (population — 23,000), collapsed. The sheriff didn't even have money to gas up his patrol car. Now tiny Simpson has a professional administrator, an integrated computerized accounting system, monthly budget reviews and an investment plan.

Similarly, Wayne County and Detroit (population — 2.6 million), have risen from near-bankruptcy, thanks to a review commission representing residents, labor, government and business. The centralized, "elected executive" form of government that may emerge bears little resemblance to the old.

Obviously, citizens are beginning to realize that the increasing complexity of government now requires sophisticated fiscal planning in lieu of daily response to political necessity.

So, far-sighted county officials are looking at management practices — before crisis threatens. They view the business of governing as a business, often in partnership with business.

The tools used include structural reorganization, departmental overhaul, productivity studies, review of government powers that affect business, an expanded role for volunteers and greater use of contractors to provide government services.

REORGANIZATION

San Diego County went through massive structural reorganization in 1979 as a result of proposition 13. Salt Lake City has successfully modified its traditional commissioner form to include professional department heads. Broward County (Fort Lauderdale), Fla., has streamlined operations by developing four management teams. And every day, more counties join the 700 headed by elected or appointed county executives.

DEPARTMENTAL OVERHAUL

Since 1976, Allegheny County and Pittsburgh, Pa. governments were overhauled by a task force of management specialists loaned from industry. Seventy-three percent of their recommendations were implemented for an annual savings over $5 million. Progeny of the Allegheny experiment were spawned in Cincinnati, Lehigh County (Allentown), Pa., Jefferson County (Louisville), Ky., Phoenix, Niagara Falls, San Francisco, Cleveland, Peoria, Ill., and Worcester, Mass.

Forsyth County (Winston-Salem),

N.C. has implemented 357 recommendations of a loaned executive task force, at a return over $4 million. "More important," the county manager said, "the committee brought together officials, professional staff and private industry."

As President Ronald Reagan has said, "Today the United States stands virtually alone among the industrialized nations in the adversary nature of the relationship between its government and the business industrial sector."

Greater cooperation must begin at home. Reagan, who used a volunteer management team to analyze government problems in California; also noted, "Inefficiency creeps into operation of any large organization and it often takes a disinterested outsider to identify and propose remedies."

PRODUCTIVITY

Productivity is difficult to measure with people who provide service. For example, is a policeman more productive if he makes more arrests — or fewer arrests? In some government service productivity is punished: If a department doesn't spend all its budget one year, it may get less the following year.

Nevertheless, notable successes have been documented using training programs to improve staff morale and reduce turnover, implementation of "flex-time," staff rotation to give workers experience at various jobs, and the "team" approach to specific problems.

Schools: The dominos' effect

EDITOR—Alpena schools are closed. Taylor soon will be, Romulus is looking toward a closing and so is Detroit. Others like dominos will fall; this is only the beginning.

Many of us educators saw this coming ten years ago. The school boards appeared not to have seen it. They continued to build new buildings when studies indicated a decrease in school populations. They spent in-adequately on auditoriums and odd designs that put a dozen classrooms in one big room without walls between them.

But don't put all the blame on the boards; they are only people representing the community. It is the collective community mind that hasn't functioned, that has failed to do its homework, that is still charging ahead with the old conventional fuzzy thinking.

There will be solutions to the problems of education but not until we all suffer the tragedy of the system's death and are then willing to make drastic changes in our thinking about what education is and what should be expected of it.

First of all our high school subject offerings are antiquated. The same subjects I was teaching thirty-five years ago are still being taught, updated but the same. In a world that is vastly different why hasn't anyone questioned the curriculum? The students have caught on. Attendance is one of the biggest problems in high schools. If not attendance then discipline. Both result from boredom with subject matter that isn't going anywhere.

The three years of English, the history, the chemistry and physics, the theoretical math, the applied math (which should be handmaiden to a core subject but is instead extracted, dried, and preserved) and all the rest of the curriculum required by the North Central Accrediting Association, is not inappropriate.

In three years a high school student can become a trained electronics technician. There's no problem today finding a job in electronics that pays well and has an excellent future. Industry is desperately short of technicians to keep computers running, automation functioning, and there's no end to it.

In the medical field the technicians outnumber the doctors and nurses. They are needed in medical labs, as x-ray technicians, radiation technologists, ultra sound technicians, and on and on.

Today's high technology cars can no longer be repaired by the weekend mechanic and diesel engines demand specialists.

An introduction to literature course is nice but it won't pay the bills.

Let me talk about this accreditation business. I have been on North Central accreditation teams a half dozen times working on high school accreditation. We would travel, expenses paid, to the city where a high school was to be observed. We would spend three days listening to the teaching, snooping into stockrooms, libraries, meeting with the faculty, going over our little checklists and then deciding if we would recommend accreditation, a warning, or no accreditation. I wasn't impressed that this cavalier procedure should determine accreditation.

I would go even further to say that accreditation is not all that important. The argument usually is whether a student can attend a college or university from a nonaccredited high school. He can.

The trend now is toward an "open door policy". The Wayne County Community College has such a policy that states that anyone may attend whether they have graduated from high school or not. You sink or swim like everyone else. Seniors who cannot graduate because their schools have been closed this fall can swing directly to WC3 for the winter term. An associate degree from WC3 is better than a high school diploma in the eyes of an employer.

When the high school curriculum gets a thorough reorganization, when we start producing marketable people, when we put an end to the proliferation of social amenities that consume the students time and the taxpayer's money, then maybe the millage will be supported.

Since it is unlikely that the community mind will change quickly, what then?

As schools close look for "educational industries" to offer programmed material packaged to meet specific needs. A child who would be in fourth grade, for example, would buy the fourth grade package, work through the programmed material at home without the need of a professional teacher then write a qualifying state examination to enter fifth grade level.

Programmed studies, if you are not familiar with it, has been developed and used for about fifteen years in a number of subject areas. It takes the student along one step at a time, requires no teacher, and is entirely different than classroom teaching. It is not a reading text, but first gives information then asks questions. It is excellent for both slow and fast students.

Look for television, particularly cable TV to carry instruction on its education channel. Since cable is local it is possible for one teacher to reach 300 or more students of one grade level instead of 30 in a classroom, then meet with them once or twice a semester for evaluation.

The K-12 system is failing because it isn't getting financial support, or is it because it isn't doing the job, or is it the community that has defaulted in improving the system, or is it leadership we need?

Cut legislators' salaries now

EDITOR—A small group of neighbors have recently discussed the heavy burden of real estate taxes, fuel costs and interest rates. Specially disturbing is the attitude of the Michigan Legislature and Gov. Milliken regarding the NO LIMIT interest rate proposals and the sacking of R.E. tax proposals.

High interest rates and ever higher R. E. taxes only fuel inflation and destroy the public trust we have placed in you and the legislature.

We as a group don't wish to deprive children of a good education or starve some old grandmother, but we do need some relief also. Lacking a better solution from the legislature, may we suggest a 7% per year cut in all government salaries for the next three years? Government salaries have risen much faster than inflation and indeed have caused much of the inflation.

If I were a legislator, administrator or a God fearing person I would seriously oppose the veiled theft of ones savings via the inflation route.

As a point of interest, what do our elected officials and Gov. Milliken have in mind when it comes to stopping inflation and the high cost of government?

Our problem is not a lack of funds but an aberrated distribution of funds. The problem is too many groups like politicians, government employees, doctors, bankers and others with political clout are getting a too large share of the pie and in some cases are forcefully taking it away from us via taxes and monopoly prices such as utility rates and bank decreed interest rates.

Legislators elected by us, the community, are supposed to act in our (average Joe) interest and not in your own interest or the interest of lobby groups which do not represent the large majority of the community. We hope you are wise enough to know what we are saying. We hope you are wiser than the Taylor or Alpena administrators.

Dedication was great

EDITOR—To the Citizens of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools:

JOYCE HAGELTHORN

tell him. "I keep waiting for the door to fly open and little kids dumping pillowcases full of candy on the floor, right here beside me.

"That would screw up your "Love Boat," he said and closed his eyes.

Suddenly from outside came a big, loud voice, "Trick or Treat."

"Oh m'gosh, I'm out of candy," I screeched as I jumped to my feet.

"That's an older kid," my husband muttered, opening his eyes a moment. "Tell him you are all out of stuff."

"Trick or treat", came the booming voice again. I rushed to the door and opened it, staring into space. A movement caught my eye, and I looked down, and there was a grinning monster staring up at me.

"Did that voice come from you?" I asked, awestruck.

He nodded and held out his pillowcase.

I dropped some pennies into it, explaining that I had been totally wiped out, and the little fellow bobbed his head and a booming voice yelled, "I want more." I had half-turned, but the voice brought me back face to face with the bobbing little monster.

"Where did you get that voice?" I asked, and suddenly the mask was torn from his face and the grinning kid looked up at me and said, "Grandma, it's me, Mike," in his normal little boy voice.

"But where is that voice you were using?" I asked.

"In the bushes," and he came in and closed the door behind him.

"Hey," boomed the voice. "Let me in."

The big voice and the little kid emptied their pillowcase on the floor and snacked away for fifteen minutes. Just long enough to keep me from seeing whether all the tangled love affairs straightened themselves out.

But I didn't care. It kept Halloween from being a complete bust.

Even Mike's grandfather woke up long enough to enjoy a couple pieces of candy.

MONA GRIGG

In all honesty, could he have expected anything else? As much as I would like to go on sympathizing, it seems to me he could have at least worded his announcement a little differently.

There are few employers who would be willing to go out on a limb and hire a man who had just recently gotten rid of himself. It stands to reason that any potential employer/interviewer would have no choice but to write across the now ex-city manager's application: "The applicant lacked substance."

Reflections

Day after the goblins visited

It is the day after Halloween as I sit in my den writing this.

Across the hall is a linen closet full of neatly stacked empty pillowcases. Not a single closet in this house has candy stashed on its shelves, and there are no churning, growling stomachs, nor empty Pepto-Bismol bottles sitting around.

What I am describing is a grandparents' home.

Gone are the days of little hobgoblins and monsters raiding the linen closet, and the mascara tube, leaving a trail from bathroom to bathroom, and bedroom to bedroom.

Sitting beside the door in the downstairs hall, is a large bowl that didn't break, with its candy all gone.

I slept all night without being awakened once with some little kid coming from a belly-ache.

Witches invaded the house giving nightmares to over-stimulated infants.

Having to sweep the living room this morning, making sure the candy scrunched into the carpet was removed. No soaking black and orange marked pillowcases.

Actually, Halloween was a bust, or it would have been if it hadn't been for my grandson, Mike, and his step-brother, Randy. Randy is one of those kids whose voice has grown bigger than his body, and he took it along last night to trumpet Mike's arrival.

But I didn't know this when I was lying on the floor watching "Love Boat". The candy bowl was empty and all of the little space-people, and tigers, and princesses had apparently gone their route, and were, even now, being scrubbed down and sent to their beds.

"What are you jerking for?" my husband asked from where he was trying to sleep in his Lazy-Boy chair. He always sleeps through "Love Boat". He doesn't seem to realize that this is the time for romance, and if you don't believe me just take a look at the bookshelves in the stores, even supermarkets. Ah yes, it is the time for romance.

"What are you jerking for?" he asked again, lifting his head from the pillow that had a pink pillowcase on it that should have been filled with the loot from little monster's wanderings.

"I'm having withdrawal pangs," I want of a better word), could only say, "It wasn't an easy decision. I don't enjoy getting rid of myself."

I shouldn't wonder. It's never easy getting rid of oneself. It's especially difficult to get rid of oneself and still be around to say, "I don't enjoy getting rid of myself." One usually doesn't have that option.

Personally, I think that particular council acted a little hastily. I think they should reconsider and give that poor man a second chance. I can't help but wonder if, in the act of doing his duty, and in the heat of the budget-cutting moment, he simply forgot who the city manager was.

On the other hand, maybe he was grandstanding. Maybe he was saying, in effect, "See, I'm taking my budget-cutting responsibilities so seriously, I'm even willing to let you consider doing away with me—heh, heh—job. Of course, I don't expect you to really do it — heh, heh—it's just my little way of expressing my willingness to explore all avenues. . . . "But maybe council had other things on their minds at the time and didn't get the "Heh, heh".

Or maybe he really had been thinking of getting rid of himself for some time. It can happen. I've done it myself from time to time.

Fortunately, since there was no urgency attached to my decision, I have been saved up to now by my penchant for procrastination.

Then, too, there wasn't $30,000 at stake — nor did I have to worry about an over-zealous city council being ready to pounce on my ponderings at any given moment, then rushing to make them a reality before I could even say, "Heh, heh".

Whatever the reasons, what's done is done, and the end of this strange-but-true story is sad but predictable: Since that unfortunate turn of events, the now ex-city manager hasn't had any other job offers.

I would like to personally thank each and every person who attended the dedication and open house of the Timothy J. Dyer Educational Social Service Center. It was a real pleasure to share this facility with over 400 of the many great citizens for whom this building was designed to serve.

In addition, I would like to publicly thank the senior citizens who provided the refreshments, the student guides, Ms. Dottie Schuler and the Vocal Dimension from Wayne Memorial High School, Norm Logan and the John Glenn High School Orchestra, Reverend John Sullivan, and the many employees who volunteered their time to share this fine day with the community.

If you were not able to attend the open house, please feel free to come and see this beautiful building, constructed with federal grant dollars.

ACE's non-political group

EDITOR—The ACE group of Romulus certainly wants to trump the opposition as stated in last week's Romulus Roman edition of the Associated Newspapers.

In this case, that is anything which prevents children from getting top-quality education.

However, ACE didn't support any issue or candidate on the Nov. 3 ballot.

When a citizen is presented with the opportunity to get full information concerning the current school crisis, he or she is able to make an intelligent decision for himself without outside pressure.

Of course, ACE is concerned about school closings. We feel it would be harmful to children and could be a catastrophe if the closing is an extended one.

But every voter should vote as his conscience dictates and not as he is told. Whatever the outcome of the election, we want to continue working against apathy and lack of concern for the welfare of children's learning and against the things that we can control which got us in trouble in the first place.

ACE wants non-voters to get involved because our school problems will not be solved in one election and we need everyone's help to overcome our financial problems. The entire Community should be of one mind about going to Lansing. If the trip is successful, it will help bring a turn-around to our financial situation.

Dog story has happy ending

EDITOR—Leaving for work one morning while it was still dark a very large black dog stood between my car and me. I unsuccessfully tried shooing it away stomping my feet and waving my arms but it wouldn't move.

I went back into the house and waited a few minutes and when I went back out, there sat the dog by the gate like he lived there. Again, I went back in the house, got some dog food, dropped it and made a beeline for the car.

When I returned from work that evening the dog was still there. It was a beautiful black female Afghan hound. It was very thin and its coat full of burrs. It turns out my husband had fed and watered it throughout the day.

I tried putting it in our dog's pen which includes a nice warm house full of straw but the dog was much too large for the house and she didn't care for the pen because she soon hopped out.

After several hours of it staring in at us through the patio door we let her in much to the dislike of our pooch.

She stretched out on the carpet in front of the wood stove obviously exhausted from her recent ordeal. Well, it spent the night (without any accidents either)!

The next day we called the local dog pounds even though the police had been called the night before. No one had reported a lost Afghan hound.

However, when we checked with the Michigan Humane Society on Marquette in Westland they did have a report on an Afghan and gave us the number.

The result was a happy owner being reunited with a pet who was stolen from a locked car over 2 weeks ago. Seems she left the dog in a locked car and someone used a coat hanger to open the car door, taking the valuable dog. Who knows what the dog went through those two weeks.

The reward money covered the food but the greater reward came knowing we were able to re-unite the two. And we know just how she felt cause we could not thank the stranger enough who several years ago took in our injured little dog and kept her until we were able to locate her.

Of course, discretion must be used in aiding any stray animal. But advise your readers that dog-nappers are alive and well. Thanks.

On single business tax

EDITOR—I am writing this letter because the news wire service coverage of my effort in the Michigan Senate to repeal the Single Business Tax did not tell the whole story.

Some of the press said it went down to a "resounding defeat" but neglected to mention that 25 out of 37 senators present simply did not vote. There were 12 votes in favor, none against and 25 not voting. It was a resounding retreat.

This is what happened: Early this year I introduced Senate Bill 166 to repeal the Single Business Tax. The Small Business Conference of this year adopted the substance of SB 166 as its number three priority recommendation. For three years, this bill and its predecessor were buried in the Senate Finance Committee. On October 7, I moved in the Senate to take the bill from committee to the Senate floor for debate.

In July, the Senate passed a resolution encouraging legislators to review the recommendations of the conference. One senator who supported the resolution argued strongly against the Senate taking SB 166 to the floor for debate. But to top that, when it came time to vote, he joined the other 24 senators who simply walked away from the issue and did not vote!

These same senators opposed my resolutions in 1979 and 1981 to stop legislative pay increases. Only Senator Welborn supports them. The arguments against me are always that we need high pay for legislators to attract top quality legislators with talent. Are these the quality legislators? Is this the talent? They were afraid to vote. They ran scared.

I think it is time to pass the Tisch legislative pay cut. The legislators themselves provide the strongest case for a cut in pay.

Let's tarry in the woodland

The enchantment everywhere,
While breezes vibrate each leaf
To tantalize your stare.

The sunlight piercing rays
Seem to hypnotize,
Lighting all that once was green
Right before your eyes.

The red and orange leaves
Like feathers flutter down.
A million tinted butterflies
Gathered on the ground.

It's no longer any mystery
For having such a season.
Nature's stage within the wood
Gives fascinating reason.

Majestics royal colors
In the Autumn of the year,
Is Summers' final curtain
As the winter snows appear.

Budget-cutting the hard way

I read in the paper that the city manager of a certain 1,000 resident upper peninsula village came up with an amazingly clever idea for saving roughly 10 percent of the village's $300,000 annual budget. (Local governments take note.) He recommended that council eliminate the city manager's position.

No I'm not going to tell you the name of the village. That's because it is the village right next to the village where I was born. Since, as you will see, there are implications far beyond simple altruism here—and since I like to visit that village ever now and then—it shall remain nameless throughout the curiosity killed the cat, besides.)

Anyway, this particular council, with visions of percentages dancing around in their wee little heads, voted unanimously in favor of the proposal. After the final vote, the now ex-city manager, apparently dazzled by his own audacity (for

He stressed the "incompatibility of this landfill with the surrounding area." He said Wayne County had studied numerous landfills and named three in Wayne County as having "high potential for water quality problems. One of the three is the existing Woodland Meadows Landfill," Galvin said.
"There is no factual justification to locate this landfill at this site at this time," he contended.

the difference. Dempsey's own depart-ment has been severely cut as the result of Michigan's own budget deficit.
An insight into some of the problems being faced by private homes and agen-cies was revealed by Ouida Cash, Direc-tor of the Out-Wayne County Services Coalition, Inc. based in Westland and operating under contract with the State.

"We always expect a pause in pay-ments at the end of the fiscal year," she said, "but we are having a tough time surviving as the result of the cut-off pay-ments August 1st. Usually we can bor-row enough to make up the difference, but now we're being forced to borrow $40,000 to hold us until December and with the state budget in such a mess, we're finding it hard to get a loan."

Child Care mothers in scattered areas of the county said it is becoming im-possible to feed and clothe young-sters — or even themselves — because of the state's lack of payments. "We are really having a hard time," one provid-er, who did not wish to be named, said. "It's a terrible situation," Commis-sioner Beard commented, "all these people are suffering needlessly. Hope-fully, some good will come out of our meeting with Dempsey."

WCCC sets Child Care open house

The Wayne County Community College, in conjunction with its new-ly-opened Child Care Center, will hold an "Open House" beginning at 8 a.m. until 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 19 at its center located at 9820 Haggerty Road in Van Buren Township.

Children from two months to five years re-ceive early education in the college's Preschool Program. In addition to offering a full-day pro-gram, the center operates a Preschool program for three and four year olds on a half-day basis and an after school Care Pro-gram for the school-age children.

WCCC opened its newest center in the area on Oct. 7.

ASK THE CHIROPRACTOR
DR. RAY ELWART DR. DAN ELWART DR. MICHAEL SHAFT
Q: I get headaches all the time. Is there anything Chiropractic care can do for them?
A: Frequent headaches certainly are a problem with many people in our society today. In fact we are so used to headaches that we call some of them "normal" early morning headaches, or "normal" afternoon headaches. These certainly are no "normal" headaches and there is no reason to keep suffering with them or covering them up with aspirin.
Many of our patients have been totally free of any kind of headaches after receiving Chiropractic Care. Many others have reported a lot fewer headaches than they had before, including migraine, sinus or tension headaches.
Dear Dr. Shaft,
Q: What is a Chiro-therm used for?

A: This is the instrument pictured above. A Chiro-therm is used to detect differences in degrees of temperature of one side of the spine compared to the other. If there is a difference, for instance one side reads 90° and the other 92°, there is probably some nerve impingement at that level. This pinched nerve can cause a multitude of problems for a person which many eventually lead to a disease. This instrument's reading is only one of a number of tests used by a chiropractor to determine if there is a misalignment (subluxation) of the spinal bones at that level.

Cheap Trick plays Ann Arbor

The first time I ever saw Cheap Trick perform, I knew that it wouldn't be long before they became superstars of the highest magnitude.

Their shows at the Second Chance in Ann Arbor are now legendary, with Rick, Robin, Bun E. and Tom delivering three 40-minute sets a night. They were probably the best rock shows I've ever witnessed.

But that was over four years ago, and Cheap Trick is now one of the biggest attractions in music, playing arenas instead of bars. Fat chance you'd ever see them in an environment like that again, eh?

Unless of course, you happened to stop in the Second Chance Saloon the 25th or 26th of this month, to see a band called, at various times, the Toledo Ludes, the Tools, the Horny Bulls, and finally, the Randymen. But you know them better as Cheap Trick.

Having seen the band many times, it seemed to me that lately they'd lost "it", that magical something that makes it work. For their stage shows they've added a synthesizer player, which is exactly what they don't need, because when you take off all the frills they've covered their music with for the last two years and get rid of the keyboards that simply muddle things up, then what you have left is Cheap Trick, one of the very best rock 'n' roll bands around today.

As always, guitarist Rick Nielson bounded around the stage looking like Sach (of the Bowery Boys) on speed, while Robin Zander kept the girls dazed and confused with his classic good looks, as well as his marvelous singing (which has improved enormously over the years).

Opening with "Stop This Game," the lead song off of their last LP, the band then romped through material taken mostly from their first (and best) couple of albums. "I Want You To Want Me," the song that popularized the band nationwide, even got screams of approval from the bartenders. Other favorites of mine performed were "Southern Girls," "He's a Whore," "Big Eyes," "Speak Now (Or Forever Hold Your Piece)," and "ELO Kiddies."

The band even did two sets, thus putting in well over an hour and a half of stage time. Not bad for five bucks. Someone asked me why a band of their stature and drawing ability would play a small place like the Chance...was it, he guessed, for the publicity? Why then?

Well, for one thing, Cheap Trick has been sort of stagnant for awhile, and while they continue to fill large auditoriums, their records have tended to be a bit on the banal side. In other words, boring.

My guess is that they just like to get back to their roots, to look an audience in their eyes and actually see them and talk to them. Certainly they were enjoying themselves, almost as much as the audience was, with Rick, Robin, Bun E. and newcomer Pete Comita (on bass) joking around with each other and with the crowd all night.

I expected a good show, but I never thought it would rate with those of a few years ago —, as I said, I thought they'd lost it. I was wrong. This is a rejuvenated Cheap Trick, and they're as good as ever. Which is mighty good indeed.

Scholarly acclaim awaits this film

"The French Lieutenant's Woman," from United Artists. Directed by Karel Reisz. Written by Harold Pinter. Starring Meryl Streep, Jeremy Irons. Rated "R". ***

By J. T. YURKO
Special to Playtime

In the not-too-distant future, college film professors will be teaching "The French Lieutenant's Woman" as an excellent example of the process of adapting a novel to the screen.

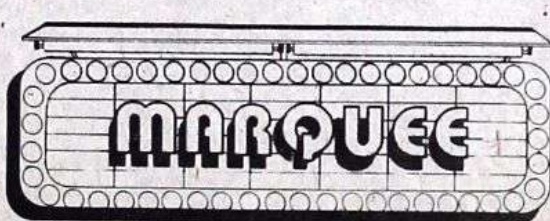

For the time being, however, the success of "The French Lieutenant's Woman" will be measured in box office receipts and not in scholarly acclaim. Whether the public will flock to it, only time will tell; it is not for all tastes, but that doesn't make it one iota less remarkable.

The John Fowles novel on which the film is based was itself a work that broke many of the rules. Parts of it read more like essays than straight fiction narrative, and Fowles even provided two endings.

The filmmakers, director Karel Reisz and screenwriter Harold Pinter, had to discover a way, like Fowles, to step out of the story at times to comment back upon it.

They solved this problem in a manner that is as clever as it is effective. We are shown a modern parallel story in which characters are shown making a movie of "The French Lieutenant's Woman." Thus the filmmakers are faithful to Fowles intent even if handled in a very different manner. We still see Victorian morals compared with contemporary morals, and we even get the two endings.

Much of the appeal of this film will be based on the acting talent of Meryl Streep, and to be sure, she along with Jeremy Irons turn in near flawless performances, especially considering that they both play dual roles. If they do not leave you breathless, it's because the film doesn't leave you breathless, and this will probably hurt the film at the box office.

Many people might be expecting a very gushy, sentimental, gothic love story, filled with waves of passion and romance. Don't.

"The French Lieutenant's Woman" is a remarkable film, both for what it is and how it got to be that way. Any filmic adaption of the novel was difficult to begin with, but not only have the filmmakers succeeded with the transition, but they have succeeded well.

Don't Let Dollars Stand In the Way of Good Health

Our Senior Citizens — They Deserve Better

IAN A. GRASSAM, D.C.

Who's the forgotten citizen in today's society? Too often it's the senior citizen or other persons living on fixed incomes. In a world of double-digit inflation, shrinking services and soaring interest rates, our seniors and those on general assistance programs have been left unprotected in too many instances.

Sure, everybody complains about taxes and inflation, but how many of us have tried to cope living on a fixed income? For many of those 65 and over it's a time of retirement they've looked forward to and dreamed about for years.

Now that retirement is here, the financial security of life in 1981 has put a damper on those dreams. Runaway inflation has a way of dehumanizing those unable to keep pace. What a poor way to treat the very people we should be thanking for their lifetime of contributions towards our government, our schools and our churches.

The senior citizens I've come in contact with aren't looking for charity or some kind of handout. They just want a chance to live a life of dignity and I certainly think they've earned that sense of dignity.

For the month of October the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center will show its appreciation of today's senior citizens. We want those on Medicaid, Medicare and other general assistance programs to know that we understand the difficulty of their plight.

During October all Medicaid and Medicare expenses normally paid for by the patient receiving chiropractic care will be absorbed by the center. There will be no charges for any deductibles, including office call and annual deductibles, nor any charges for examination or required x-rays normally picked up by the patient.

In short, no out-of-pocket costs will be incurred by Medicaid or Medicare patients.

The thought of a senior citizen, or anyone for that matter, continuing to suffer from such ailments as back and leg pain, headaches, allergies, deafness, stiff neck and numerous other conditions simply because they're financially trapped is appalling. Chiropractic care is the way to a healthier life — and that's priceless.

During October our staff will show those on fixed incomes how chiropractic can change their lives. Medicare, Medicaid, A.D.C. and general assistance patients should simply call the center at 422-7800 for an appointment.

We don't consider this health care as charity. It's our way of helping those most affected by the economic realities of today.

It's also our way of saying "thank you" to those senior citizens who have given so much to improve our standard of living. Those of us at the Grassam Chiropractic Life Center have not forgotten about you, the senior citizen.

We look forward to seeing and treating you in October.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Ernest Sorini is chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. By DR. ERNEST SORINI

The perception of oneself as "overweight" has some cruel yet interesting ways of materializing. In my own case, it was when I noticed a few years ago that my elbows had developed cute little dimples and that my once prominent masculine chin had disappeared one night while I slept. At first I thought it was just a dream, but I was finally convinced of my corpulence when a woman in an appliance store put a plastic glass up to my belt buckle and asked the salesman if I dispensed ice-water in addition to being self-defrosting. The final insult came as I was walking across the street after leaving the appliance store, when I was ticketed for not having a license plate.

What do you do when you realize that you're looking more and more like your baby pictures? You go on any one of a number of diets which have been popularized in book, song, and poetry form. For example, the diet that appeals to me most is the one which says that I can eat anything I want (except deep fried rutabaga and steamed cauliflower) so long as I eat it slowly. This is supposed to stimulate the brain's "satiety centers" so that after three or four mouthfuls one simply doesn't feel hungry anymore. I only gained eighteen pounds on that one (unluckily my "satiety center" did not gain an ounce, and it was still starved.)

For those of you who are more likely to place your trust in materia medica, there are a number of prescriptions and over-the-counter diet pills available to help you stay slim. Interestingly, you can usually find them in the grocery store next to the Twinkies and Coca-Cola.

Finally, for those of you who feel more comfortable in a crowd of others similarly afflicted with adiposity, there are a number of clubs to help you either lose the weight you don't like, or help you like the weight you have.

Perhaps the least well-understood and mysterious program yet devised for weight reduction and control is a program which goes by the code name, "moderation and exercise". In this avant-gard approach to avoidupois, the subject is instructed to perform two tasks which may seem peculiar to many Americans: (1) exercise regularly — three or four times a week, a brisk walk, run, racewalk, tennis, racquet ball — to get your heart going about two-thirds of its maximum rate and, (2) eat a balanced diet consisting of small amounts of red meat, fish, eggs, and poultry; in addition to green leafy vegetables, fruits, whole grains, cheeses, and milk round out the diet.

This last method is one which demonstrates the greatest potential for withstanding the test of time. However, its mathematical simplicity belies the fortitude which is required to initiate it. However, once under way, the practices of moderation in eating and regular exercise can become a permanent method for living a healthy life, and one which does not rely upon expensive and often times useless external supports.

Overpopulation

County jail crisis has eased

An overpopulation crisis that closed the Wayne County Jail to additional prisoners from local municipalities has eased somewhat as the result of close cooperation between municipal judges, the Sheriff's Department, law enforcement administrators and intensive effort on the part of Chief Executive Judge Richard D. Dunn and Executive Judge Samuel Gardner of Recorder's Court, Samuel A. Turner, Chairman of Wayne County Board of Commissioners announced late Friday.

Although a report from Sheriff William Lucas has indicated the prisoner count has been reduced from 1039 Tuesday to 949 by Friday noon the order to close the jail remains in effect.

Turner said the high level of cooperation between the various sectors of the criminal justice system has successfully reduced jail crowding without risk to the public.

"The Board of Commissioners," he added, "will consider carefully requests for expanded jail facilities but must keep in mind the county's stringent financial situation." He referred to the Public Safety and Judiciary Committee's request from Lucas for cells and staff to provide security for 1,190 anticipated prisoners — 250 more than presently housed.

In a meeting at the City-County Building Thursday, Dunn addressed nearly 80 local district and municipal judges and law enforcement administrators informing them that a jail crisis now exists in the downtown facility and the jail annex in Westland and that the Sheriff had closed both facilities to additional prisoners indefinitely effective Tuesday night.

Lucas, following the meeting, said he had turned over supervision of the county jail to Judge Dunn. This would avoid his being in contempt of court for exceeding the prisoner population limitations set by the courts several years ago.

In answer to a number of police chief inquiries, during the meeting, Judge Dunn assured them that under his court order their cities, townships and chartered townships would not be held responsible for violating State Correctional codes. Most local jails do not meet cell standards for size, patrolling, or eating services. Dunn also assured them that the expense of holding county prisoners would be reimbursed by the county on a per diem basis.

In the meantime, Neal Bush, attorney representing county jail prisoners, has asked Perry Johnson, Director of the State Department of Corrections, to send all of his investigators to Wayne County to see that local jails meet state correction standards. "If he refuses," he said, "we'll take him and his department to court."

Dunn told those attending that prisoners charged with more serious crimes — such as murder — may be admitted to the county jail provided they obtain permission from his office. "I realize," he said, "that your security, in most cases, is inadequate to house the more violent prisoners."

Lucas said the downtown jail was at capacity of 739 prisoners and the annex was currently housing 242 offenders, nearly 100 more than the cells will accommodate. Lucas echoed Dunn's estimation that the jail population would increase from this point on rather than decrease because of the economic situation, the nature of crime today, which is considered more serious, and the inability of persons to afford bail.

Judge Dunn made it clear that the situation was not the fault of the County Board of Commissioners. "The county is having financial problems today as are all counties throughout the state and the State Department of Corrections is fully aware of that," he said.

Judge Dunn is considering reopening three barracks at the Detroit House of Corrections.

Prune Mocha Cake Roll

Looking for some quick and delicious summertime baking ideas? Here's an elegant dessert, Prune Mocha Cake Roll, that's easy to make but looks and tastes like you spent hours preparing it. The secret is in combining some of your favorite foods with a few convenience products.

Moist and delicious California prunes are what give the dessert its special flavor and texture. Their sweet, fruity taste blends beautifully with coffee flavoring to create an overall mocha taste. And their naturally moist, chewy texture enhances the creamy-smooth consistency of the filling within.

Since prunes are available already pitted, they're easy to use in this recipe. For the creamy filling, just combine prunes and orange juice in the blender until smooth, then fold into whipped cream. The cake is easy, too, with the help of buttermilk baking mix and instant coffee. Dust the finished cake roll with powdered sugar and a sprinkling of coffee powder and garnish with a "posy" of juicy prunes and mint leaves.

Keep some extra prunes on hand for snacking, too. These plump little gems are rich in vitamins and minerals, including vitamin A and hard-to-get iron. Keep them chilling in the refrigerator for a cool and easy summer pick-me-up.

Prune Mocha Cake Roll

2 eggs
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1/4 cup milk
1 cup buttermilk baking mix

3 teaspoons instant coffee powder
Powdered sugar
12 ounces (about 2 cups) pitted prunes
3/4 cup orange juice
2 cups grated orange peel
1 cup whipping cream, whipped, or
2 cups whipped topping

In small deep bowl beat eggs with electric mixer until thick and lemon colored, about 5 minutes. Gradually beat in granulated sugar. Mix in milk to blend thoroughly. Gradually mix in baking mix and 2 teaspoons of the coffee powder just until blended. Grease a jelly roll pan (15 1/2 x 10 1/2 x 1-inch). Line with waxed paper, and grease paper. Turn batter into pan and spread evenly. Bake in 375 degree oven about 12 minutes until springy to the touch. Do not overbake. Loosen edges of cake and invert onto tea towel dusted generously with powdered sugar. Carefully remove waxed paper. Roll cake and towel from short side. Cool on rack. Meanwhile prepare filling: In container of electric blender combine prunes and orange juice. Blend until almost smooth, turning on and off and scraping sides as needed. In bowl fold prune mixture and orange peel into whipped cream. Unroll cake and spread evenly with filling; reroll, removing towel. Place on serving plate, seam side down. Cover and chill at least 2 hours. Just before serving dust with powdered sugar and then with the remaining teaspoon of coffee powder. Garnish with whole pitted prunes, if desired. Slice to serve. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Newly-wed O'Keefes now living in Canton

On the evening of October 17, Joy Warblow, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warblow of 45281 Van Born Rd., Belleville, and Kevin O'Keefe, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick O'Keefe of 1009 Studebaker, Ypsilanti, exchanged nuptial vows and wedding rings.

The Rev. Paul O'Connor and The Rev. Robert Beyer officiated the six o'clock rite at University Chapel of the Resurrection. Soloist for the occasion was the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Michael Warblow, who sang "The Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared in a gown of polyester crepe with an overlay of chiffon and lace enhancing the chapel train and bodice.

A fingertip veil of silk illusion, secured by a half crown hat of lace studded with seed pearls, and bouquet of white carnations, roses and baby's breath completed her ensemble.

As her sister's maid of honor, Pamela Warblow of Canton donned a rose-colored polyester crepe frock with lace accenting the bodice and sleeves. Her bouquet was comprised of rose-tinted carnations tied with wine-colored ribbon, her hairpiece of carnations including sprigs of baby's breath.

Wine-colored outfits, identical to the honor maid's, were worn by the quartet of bridesmaids: Kim Koller of Allen Park; Peggy Calhoun and Cheryl Urbaniak of Belleville, and the junior attendant, Jennifer Warblow of Beloit, Wisc., niece of the bride. They carried bouquets of wine carnations trimmed with pink streamers, and tucked similar blooms and baby's breath in their hair.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Christopher O'Keefe of Ypsilanti. Groomsmen included Kerry O'Keefe of Ypsilanti, another brother; Michael Warblow of Beloit, Wisc. and Robert Warblow of Grand Rapids, brothers of the bride; and junior ushers Kim and Cory O'Keefe of Ypsilanti, twin brothers of the bridegroom.

At the reception, which followed at the Ford UAW Hall in Ypsilanti, the bride's mother greeted guests in a double knit wine gown with a jacket of lace while the bridegroom's mother was in a rose-colored polyester crepe gown with a lace bow neckline.

The newlyweds spent their honeymoon in California and are now at home in Canton.

Both young people are 1979 graduates of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. O'Keefe currently a junior at Eastern Michigan University. Her husband is employed by Frontier Airlines at Detroit Metro Airport.

Pine Creek Country Club of Belleville was the setting for the rehearsal dinner hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

potpourri

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

When you've had your fill of trying to find something decent and interesting on the tube -- and that just ain't too easy any more -- you can always turn to a good book. That is, if you have one at hand.

And it isn't necessary to invest scads of your hard-earned dough to do so either. Your library -- and we have too terrific ones in our midst -- is the place to find your favorite topics and authors. And if they don't stock the book you're looking for, they'll attempt to find it for you via their inter-loan system with other libraries.

Get yourselves on their reserved books list. If you want a particular current piece which is proving quite popular, you're gonna have to wait a bit. But with your name on that list, you WILL get a call in a few weeks and find yourself reading the very novel everyone is talking about. If it's reference books you want, history, cookbooks (and, wow, have you looked over THAT division?), humor, biographies, our Belleville and Romulus systems have it or will send out their tracers to get it for you.

If it's fiction you're after, the one book I'd recommend to anyone these days is "Kane and Abel" by Jeffery Archer. Potpourri had a review for you a couple months back so we'll not rehash it except to say it is probably "the" best book read all year.

Other goodies, formerly mentioned, but which you may have forgotten about, (and remember, you might NOT like the same things; this is just one gal's opinion) include: "Portraits" and "A World Full of Strangers" by Cynthia Freeman; "Horowitz and Mrs. Washington" by Henry Denker; "Mind Over Murder" and "The Rosary Murders" by William Kienzle; "O Kaplan, My Kaplan" and "King Silky" both by Leo Rosten; "The Witness" by Dorothy Uhnak; and also her very latest, "False Witness."

Still others you might want to spend those coming winter nights with could well be "Topaz" by Leon Uris; "Ordinary People" by Judith Guest; "The Sixth Commandment" by Lawrence Sanders; "Gemini Contenders" by Robert Ludlum; "Random Winds" by Belva Plain; "The Cradle Will Fall" by Mary Higgins Clark; "The House Next Door" by Siddons; "Sins of the Fathers" by Susan Howatch and "A Woman of Substance" by Barbara Taylor Bradford;

There -- that out to get you through the first of the year!

TWO MORE NOVELS, each by authors with recognizable names to those who follow best seller lists, were chalked up by yours truly of late -- one to be recommended, the other receiving a so-so rating.

"The Third Deadly Sin", another of Lawrence Sanders' Biblically titled tomes, should appeal to both men and women whose literary tastes include an occasional murder mystery.

In this book, the reader is not the one left to ponder the identity of the culprit since she (yes, "she") gets her act underway almost immediately and it's the police and a retired chief who must wonder where she'll strike next as they siphon through some pretty meager clues.

Quiet, mousey Zoe Kohler, a nonentity to herself as well as others, turns from nondescript to flamboyant, from gentle to brutal, as he sets out to pick her victims -- at random -- stuns New York City and bewilders its police force. Sanders, who also gave us "The Tenth Commandment", "The First Deadly Sin", "The Anderson Tapes" and some half dozen others, has a cold, calculating bit in this, his current piece of fiction.

Only because it bears the name Irwin Shaw am I mentioning his newest work, "Bread Upon the Waters." If you, too, have enjoyed some of his past offerings (and particularly "Rich Man, Poor Man" which made him a library and television "biggie") you might want to consider this one twice -- especially if you're thinking of buying it.

It's a good tale and well written but is just plain depressing! If you want to sit through a few hundred pages of characters you can't like very much, however, then take the time to read this.

About a supposedly happy, well-adjusted family, the story opens with the youngest daughter, 17, saving a man from Central Park muggers; the victim turning out to be tremendously wealthy, influential and MOST grateful.

His gratitude takes the Strand quintet -- the parents, two daughters and a son -- to heights they'd never imagined, the results of which leave the reader disappointed and in a real funk!

When the book ends, it's with a question as to which of the characters you like LEAST. Rather gloomy stuff but if you're a tried-and-true Shaw buff, you'll probably want to take it on anyway.

ONE OF THE LEAST-FAVORED "departments" for the homemaker is "Clean-ups" -- those messes we have to confront after cooking and in the general routine of keeping house. Here are a few helpful hints from the experts on how to make things just a wee bit easier.

-- To quickly remove food that is stuck to a casserole dish, fill with boiling water and add two tablespoons of baking soda or salt. Do this as soon as the food is removed and let stand during the eating period.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Caution -- Some casserole makers (Anchor Hocking, for one, prints a warning CONTRARY to the above suggestion. If your casserole is clear, amber or smoked GLASS, avoid the aforementioned.)

-- After using a meat grinder and before washing it, run a piece of bread through the mechanism.

-- For a spillover in the oven, sprinkle bottom of oven with automatic dishwasher soap and cover with wet paper towels. Let stand for a few hours.

-- To rid foul odors from plastic containers, press crumpled-up newspaper (black and white only) into the container. Cover tightly and leave overnight.

-- Use a toothbrush to clean the lemon rind, cheese, onion or whatever out of the grater before washing it.

-- For that blender that's hard to clean: merely fill part way with hot water, add a drop of detergent, cover and turn on for a few seconds; rinse and drain dry.

-- To remove unpleasant odors from your garbage disposal, just grind down a half lemon or some orange rinds.

IN AMERICA, WE AVERAGE OUT THIS WAY . . .

• We eat 91 hot dogs a year. Adults eat more than children, women eat more than men and more are eaten as meal entrees than as snacks. But the average American still eats more hot dogs during the baseball season than at any other time of year.

• When questioned by University of Michigan Survey Researchers, 71.5 percent said they would still go on working if they had enough money to live as comfortably as they'd like for the rest of their lives and 28.5 percent said they would not.

• The average school bus driver is a married woman, 37 years old, who has more than one child herself and has driven a school bus for five years. She works three or four hours a day and her route is 25 miles.

• Forty-one percent of wives and 45 percent of husbands in America brush their teeth as soon as they get up. Bedtime is an even more popular brushing time -- 70 percent of wives and 60 percent of husbands brush then, too.

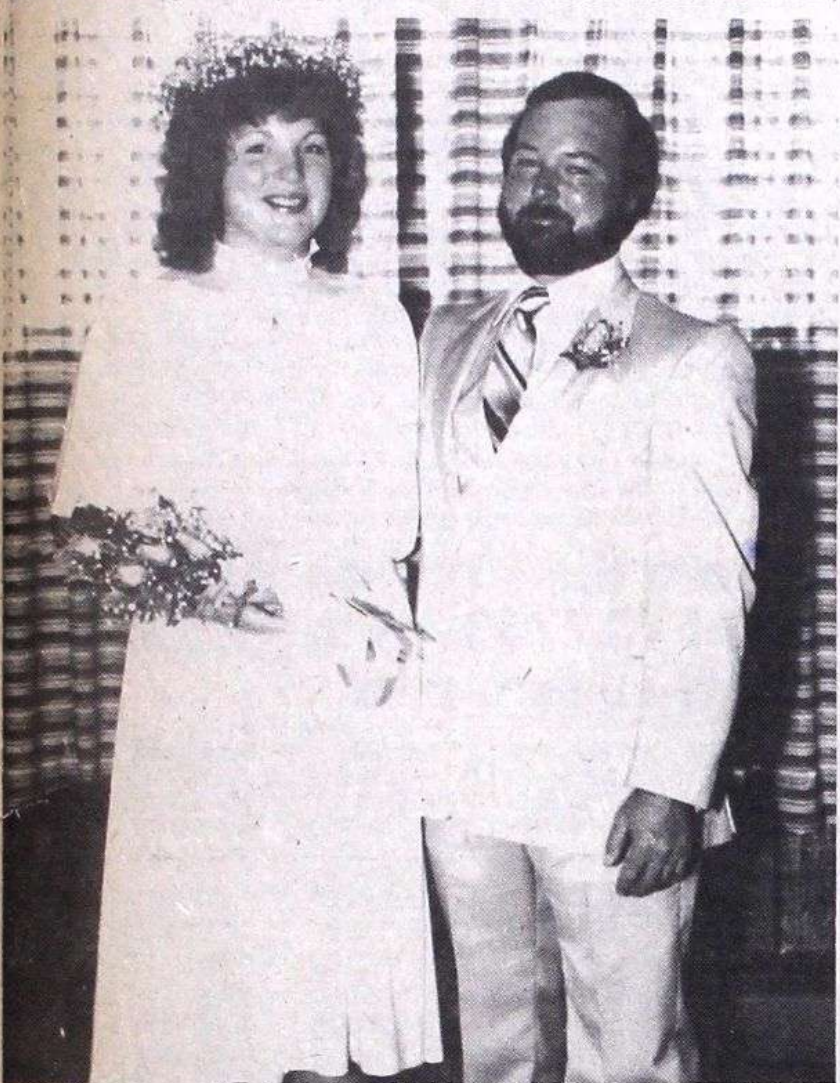

• Three out of four taxpayers get a refund on their federal income tax. The average refund is $508.

THE BOTTOM LINE: If envy were a fever, all the world would be ill.

TAX-FREE

all Savers Certificate

If you elect to receive interest at maturity there is no compounding and the interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 10.770%. If you wish to have interest payable monthly or quarterly, the annual simple interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 10.229% and interest retained in your All Savers Certificate will be continuously compounded for an effective annual yield of 10.770%. These rates are available for All Savers Certificates opened through November 27, 1981. Rates for accounts opened after November 27, 1981, will be announced later. However, the rate established at the time an All Savers Certificate is opened is the rate in effect for the full one-year term of the account. You should also know that in the event of early withdrawal from an All Savers Certificate federal law and regulations require a substantial early withdrawal penalty and loss of the interest exclusion for federal income tax purposes. The All Savers rate of 10.770% is equivalent to the yields for taxable investments shown in the table. This table demonstrates how the All Savers Certificates can provide you with a higher after-tax yield than you may be earning from a money market mutual fund or on other investments. The deposit needed in your All Savers Certificate to achieve the maximum allowable deduction is $18,570.10 for a joint return and $9,285.05 for an individual return.

Compare the Tax-Free All Savers Rate of 10.770% with Yields on Taxable Investments.

TAXABLE INCOME ON A JOINT RETURN	COMPARABLE YIELD ON TAXABLE INVESTMENTS	TAXABLE INCOME ON A JOINT RETURN	COMPARABLE YIELD ON TAXABLE INVESTMENTS
$10,000.00	13.13%	$ 70,000.00	23.41%
20,000.00	14.17%	80,000.00	23.41%
30,000.00	17.10%	90,000.00	26.27%
40,000.00	18.89%	100,000.00	26.27%
50,000.00	21.12%	110,000.00	29.92%
60,000.00	21.12%	120,000.00	29.92%

The yields shown in this table are based on 1981 tax rates but do not reflect the effects of any tax credits that may be available in 1981, nor do they take into account the 50% maximum tax rate on salary and wages. If tax-free interest is received in 1982, the comparable yield on taxable investments should be calculated using 1982 tax rates. In addition, the yield for the All Savers Certificate actually will be somewhat higher because the amount excluded from federal income tax is also not taxed by the State of Michigan.

Here's what the one-year All Savers Certificate can mean to you.

- You can exclude up to $2,000.00 interest from federal income tax on a joint return ($1,000.00 on an individual return). The amount excluded is also not taxed by the State of Michigan.
- Your All Savers Certificate is insured to $100,000.00 by the FSLIC.
- Your interest rate is guaranteed for the full term of the certificate, unlike other investments such as money market funds where rates fluctuate daily.
- You can participate with a deposit of $500.00 or more.
- Funds in your Standard Federal 26-Week Money Market Certificate can be transferred to an All Savers Certificate without any early withdrawal penalty on the transferred funds.

Westerlands come-from-behind to nip Stevenson 6,000 to watch Glenn, Wayne classic

By ERIC GEARNS
Special Writer

The John Glenn Rockets had their hands full last week against Livonia Stevenson, but still managed a final quarter come from behind win over the Spartans 15-8.

The Rockets, under head coach Chuck Gordon, may have been looking ahead to their annual Fall Classic with Wayne Memorial this Friday night.

"I'm sure there was probably a little looking ahead. Our kids play the whole season knowing that we have to play Wayne, and they want to win that game more than any other," said Gordon.

However, Gordon felt most of the credit belonged to Livonia Stevenson's defense.

"You have to give Stevenson credit. They played an outstanding game and kept us from doing some of the things we wanted to," explained Gordon.

Things started out pretty well for the Rockets as quarterback Rick Wilson completed an early first quarter drive with an eight yard touchdown run, and Todd Jennings kicked the extra point to give Glenn an early 7-0 lead.

The game then turned into a defensive struggle with both teams failing to amount any kind of consistent drive until early in the final quarter when Stevenson scored and then added the important two point conversion to break out on top 8-7.

Wilson, one of the state's top quarterbacks, then began his ball control show. With the hard-running of Jennings and fullback Dan Forchione, and Wilson's precision passing to receivers Amado Varona, Mike Dest, and Stan Greib, the Rockets launched an 86 yard drive with Jennings going the final six yards for the score. Forchione added the two point conversion to give Glenn their final margin of victory.

Gordon looks for a typical Glenn vs. Wayne battle this Friday night.

"When these two teams play you can forget the records. If they beat us in this final game it would mean the whole season to them. I know that is the way we felt going into the game last year," Gordon said.

The Rocket coach has a great deal of respect for the Wayne coaching staff and for their players.

"Floyd Carter always does a good job in preparation for the game. We know we are going to have to stop Shawn Boyer. He is one of the quickest backs we will see all season. We also have a lot of respect for quarterback Matt Korte's ability and Vince Patterson's speed. We will have to be prepared for everything."

The home field advantage has never meant too much in this series. Last year Wayne won at John Glenn and the year before the Rockets took the Zebras at Wayne.

Wayne will play host in this year's fall classic set for 7:30 p.m. at Bill Elliot Field, 3001 Fourth Street on Wayne.

A crowd of over 6,000 is expected for the game, but ample parking is available. Glenn will enter the game with a 7-1 season record, while Wayne will take a 1-7 total into the contest.

Wayne wins WW swim

Defending champ Wayne Memorial continued to monopolize the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Championships as Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers on Saturday retained for the fifth consecutive year the first place trophy.

In a field of seven teams, Wayne tankers piled up 292 points to their closest rival's, Wyandotte's 206, to claim the title five times in the last seven years. Riverview was a far third with 160 points, followed by Belleville (157), Garden City West (140), Willow Run (104) and Garden City East (74).

It was the first time since the invitational's inception that Westland John Glenn failed to show for the competitions.

"Although we didn't swim exceptionally well," said McPartlin, "I felt the girls are improving, and this title will have us along."

Wayne, however, garnered only three of the 11 first places, but dominated the diving competitions as Marijane Little captured the gold medal and teammates Debbie Swain and Wendy Pattison turned in with third and fourth place performances, respectively.

Wayne also took the 200-yard medley relay with the foursome of Catherine Batterson, Mary Jo Mason, Kim Tilley and Karen Van Keuren who were clocked in 2:06.2.

Miss Mason also tossed the 100-yard backstroke (breaststroke 1:14.7) into the Wayne winning column.

However, Belleville's senior sensation, Laura Kuhr, and Garden City West's Kim Dorsey were the only individuals who won two events. Miss Kuhr, a state finalist a year ago, chalked up victories in the 50-yard freestyle (26.3) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:07.6).

In the meantime, Miss Dorsey touched in first for the 200-yard freestyle, covering the distance in 2:03.3, and beating Wayne's Mary Batterson to the wire. Miss Dorsey struck gold again with a sparkling 5:23.8 performance for the 500-yard freestyle, again beating Batterson to the finish.

'Disappointed' Tigers await vengeful Chiefs

You may be sure that Belleville Coach Michael Colletta hasn't forgotten his multi-overtime victory over Canton a year ago.

And if the third year Tiger grid coach hasn't forgotten, then it follows that Canton's Chiefs also haven't. And Coach Rich Barr's minions will be out for revenge Friday night when the two area, but non-conference rivals, clash in the season's finale.

Colletta's Tigers will take a 4-4 overall record into the season's final confrontation, while Barr's Chiefs will bring with them to Belleville a 2-5 overall mark. Kick-off is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

"We had our hands full a year ago," Colletta warned, "and I don't see anything that will tell us that this battle won't be as hard fought as last year's."

Belleville is coming off of a "disappointing" 21-7 setback at the hands of Dearborn's Pioneers who rallied for three touchdowns in the second half to overcome a 7-0 deficit. The Tigers struck first as quarterback Sam Villa completed a 42-yard TD pass to Rog Templeman late in the second period.

Villa also added the point-after.

But that's about all the Tiger offense could generate against the Pioneers whose defense held their visitors pinned the rest of the game. In fact, Belleville only once penetrated pass midfield the rest of the afternoon.

Dearborn came back immediately after intermission and scored on its first possession, then erupted for two TDs in the final 12 minutes to stash away its sixth win against two losses.

"They controlled the ball against us in that last half," Colletta noted. "We had our chances, though, and refused to capitalize upon them."

Two such chances were passes by Villa that had TD written all over it. They were dropped.

Villa finished up with an anemic 2 of 11 for his passing game, a total of 52 yards.

Running back Keith Gates was held to less than his usual 100 yards as he tallied 89 on 14 carries.

Colletta said that if it weren't for the defensive efforts of linebacker Ken Krug, Rod Fisher and Mel Richendollar the final score could have been even worst.

Here's how the teams match-up

The annual "Fall Classic" between Westland John Glenn and Wayne Memorial High grid teams is among the hardest fought rivalry in the Midwest.

Each year crowds of between 6,000 and 8,000 fill the stadium to watch these two football teams do battle.

While most observers admit that the records of the two teams don't matter, it still is interesting to compare the two squads on paper.

For many fans in the area this is the only game they will see and so here is a rundown of the matchups of key positions.

OFFENSIVE LINE: This is a John Glenn strong point, led by senior Desi Baumann, the line is quicker than Wayne. Wayne has had trouble throughout the year with their line and has yet to show a consistent advantage over any opponent. The edge goes to John Glenn.

RUNNING BACKS: John Glenn relies on the two-pronged running of Todd Jennings and Don Forchione. Both players average around 70 yards per game on pass oriented Rocket offense. Wayne has an outstanding running back in Shawn Boyer. Boyer has accounted for five 100 yard plus rushing performances. A healthy Eric Schultz now holds down the full back position and he is a bruising type fullback who is very sure-handed and physically very strong.

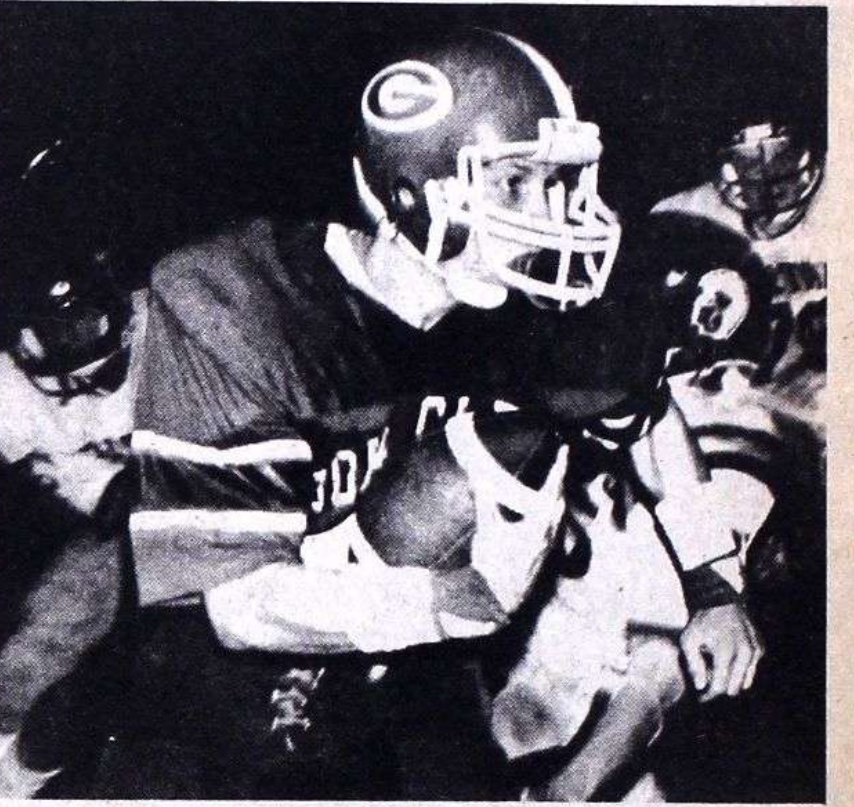

Wayne has excellent depth at running back with Kendall Moore who is good around the goal line and Bill Howard who is an exciting breakaway kind of runner. The edge is in Wayne's favor.

RECEIVERS: Glenn has three outstanding receivers in Amado Varona, Mike Dest, and Stan Greib. Varona possesses exceptional speed and can go all the way anytime. Dest is a surehanded receiver with good speed. Greib is a hard-nosed tight end with great hands. This trio will give Wayne a difficult night.

The Zebras have outstanding speed in wide receiver Vince Patterson, and Joe Bachnak is a surehanded slotman who can also run well on the reverse. Hal Gorton handles tight end chores with Marty Smith, but neither are thrown to very often. The edge goes to the Rockets.

QUARTERBACKS: Both teams have excellent signal-callers and good backup quarterbacks. Matt Korte for Wayne is an excellent option quarterback, who can throw well if given the time. His backup Jeff Blazer is an excellent passer.

Man on the go

Glenn's Todd Jennings is heading for paydirt against visiting Livonia Stevenson Friday night in an out-of-conference game that saw the Westlanders come-from-behind to edge the Spartans and pad their over-all record to 7-1. Coach Chuck Gordon and his Rockets have "the big one" ahead of them when they meet Wayne Memorial in their traditional match-up Friday night.

U of M holds wrestling scrimmage at Glenn

In what is considered a first for the area, University of Michigan's varsity wrestling team will conduct a scrimmage at Westland John Glenn High School beginning at 12:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 8.

There will be a "mini-clinic" with wrestling coaches Dale Bahr and Joe Wells discussing "Takedowns and spiral ride." The scrimmage will get underway at 2 p.m.

There will be a $2 admission cost for adults, while students may see all of the action for $1. Children under 6 years old will be admitted free of charge.

"Glenn's Wrestling Boosters will serve as host for this year's University of Michigan intra-squad scrimmage," Glenn coach Bob Lusk pointed out. "This event not only serves as a principle fund-raiser, but we feel it is an excellent way to introduce scholastic wrestling season for western Wayne County and surrounding areas."

"We hope that all of the area's fans will come out and help welcome the Wolverines to our area," Lusk concluded.

Goal-line stand saves Wayne as Taylor topples, 20-15

By ERIC GEARNS
Special Writer

For Wayne Memorial Coach Floyd Carter, his staff, the players, and the Zebra fans last Friday's 20-15 victory over the Taylor Truman Cougars was just as important as a State Championship game.

"All year we've worked, the kids have worked, and the fans have supported us. We haven't been as successful as we've wanted, but we hung in there and this win means a lot," said Carter.

In addition to gaining their first victory, the win will help the Zebras psychologically as they go into their final contest against arch-rival Westland John Glenn in the battle for the Wayne Jaycee Traveling Trophy.

"The win has to help us. I would hate to have to go against Glenn without a victory. Now the kids know they can respond to the pressure and make the big plays and it has to help," Carter said.

Big plays were the name of the game against Truman.

It looked as if the Zebras were to be denied again, as Truman took the ball on their first possession and marched 43 yards in seven plays, with the touchdown coming on an 11 yard run by junior tailback Todd Miller.

Zebra Nose-Guard Chris Whitworth blocked the extra point attempt.

This game was to be different, however, as Wayne led by the quarterback Matt Korte and running of Shawn Boyer came right back with a 12 play, 73 yard drive with Korte going over from six yards out to even the score at 6-6 with 1:06 left in the first quarter.

Truman began another concentrated drive, but Whitworth sacked Cougar signal-caller Mike Johnson for a nine yard loss to thwart the drive.

For the remainder of the first half both teams were able to move the ball, but turnovers and penalties kept both off the scoreboard.

Truman had an early opportunity in the third quarter after Boyer misplayed a punt and the Cougars recovered on the Wayne 35. But Zebra defensive back Kendall Moore picked off a Johnson pass to dodge the scoring bullet.

However, Wayne gave the ball right back to the Cougars on a pass interception by Phil Biggs that was returned 20 yards to the Zebra 19. The Cougars capitalized immediately as Jeff Zavadi ramblled 19 yards off tackle for the TD. Whitworth again got a piece of the extra point attempt and Truman led 12-6.

Wayne came back on the very next play following the kickoff as Korte hit wide receiver Vince Patterson with a 68 yard scoring pass on first down to not the game at 12-12 with 8:05 left in the third stanza.

Truman launched a 17 play drive highlighted by the running of big fullback Steve Hojnowski, which ended in a 23 yard field goal by Mike Blazek to give the Cougars a 15-12 lead with 11:16 to go in the fourth quarter.

After an exchange of punts, the Zebras began a 13 play drive highlighted by the inside running of fullback Eric Schultz and the outside running of Boyer.

With only 2:07 remaining in the game, Moore completed the drive going one yard around end for the score. Korte kept the ball on a fake kick for the two point conversion, to put Wayne ahead 20-15.

Truman wasn't ready to quit though, and following the kickoff they drove all the way to the one yard line with nine seconds remaining.

At this point Zebra Coach Carter inserted six foot two inch 240 pound offensive tackle Brian Burke into the lineup as a defensive lineman. Burke made a genius out of Carter by teaming with Kevin Rodriguez to stop Hojnowski on the one inch line as the gun sounded ending the game.

Carter feels that a lot of the credit for the victory goes to his staff of assistant, Mike Henry, Jim Paling, and Mike Henry.

Carter knows that while the victory will help some, that Wayne will have to play their best game to defeat the powerful Rockets.

"We have to play close to a perfect game no turnovers or penalties. We respect their passing game, and I think Rick Wilson will be the finest quarterback we've faced this year. The key will be for us to stay close and not allow the big play to beat us. Our kids are ready," said Carter.

The game will be played at Bill Elliot Field at Wayne High Friday night at 7:30. A crowd of over 6000 is expected.

Spartans win for home crowd

Dearborn Heights Riverside was just what the doctor ordered for ailing Cherry Hill.

Winless in six previous starts, Cherry Hill ended its frustrations and doldrums with a 20-6 victory over their Tri-River Conference rivals and provided a well-attended Homecoming crowd with something to cheer about.

"It was our first victory and it meant a lot to these kids," said Cherry Hill coach Jerry Pawloski who winds down the season Saturday afternoon at home against Clarenceville. "These kids have been playing their hearts out and don't have anything to show for it."

"Needless to say we'd like to end the year on a high note," Pawloski added.

That may be easier said than done, as the cliché goes. The Spartans of Cherry Hill haven't defeated their neighboring foes for the past three years.

"Clarenceville is always a well-coached team," Pawloski pointed out. "However, they don't appear to be as big as they have been in the past. We saw them against Inkster (Inkster won) and I feel that we're about the same kind of team."

The two clash at 1:30 p.m. on the Spartan gridiron.

Cherry Hill got on the scoreboard against Riverside eight minutes into the initial quarter when quarterback Tom Michno capped a 68-yard, 13-play sustained drive with a five-yard TD toss to Ron Peterson. Then, Guy Krikorian proceeded to kick his first of two extra points.

The Spartans mounted their second threat in the early moments of the second quarter when Michno maneuvered his team to the Rebel 20 where the drive fizzled and Krikorian was called upon to boot a 37-yard field goal which landed short of the uprights.

Riverside came right back and threatened to equal things up, however, Krikorian messed up the plans by stepping in front of a delinquent pass for his first of two interceptions.

John Green accounted for the two other Cherry Hill touchdowns — both third period tallies. He stole a pass and sprinted 60-yards for one of the TDs, then late in the quarter hauled in a 30-yard screen pass for the last six-pointer.

Green piled up 173 yards on 26 carries for the best offensive performance by a Spartan back in almost a decade.

Defensively, Green, Carl Lucas, Jeff Sheposh and Krikorian compiled for five interceptions, while Sheposh also was the leading tackler with six solos and three assists. Greg Evans had five unassisted tackles.

Out of sight, out of reach

Lunging for this misguided aerial is Westland John Glenn's Stan Grieb (88) who was instrumental in the Rockets' come-from-behind victory over Livonia Stevenson Friday night. Glenn takes on natural rival, Wayne Memorial, on Friday in the curtain-drawer for both teams, that is, if some miracle doesn't occur and Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets somehow receive a post-season playoff berth.

Local runners 'shut out' at Class A state finals

Unbeaten and top-ranked Dearborn Edsel Ford captured its inaugural Class A Cross Country state championship over the weekend as the T-Birds coasted past regional survivors to post a 19-point victory over its closest challenger.

Flint Kearsly ran second, while Birmingham Brother Rice finished second and third, respectively.

Wayne Memorial, the reigning Great Lakes 8 Conference champ which finished third at the regional, wound up with 324 points and 14th in the best.

"We didn't run exceptionally well," said Wayne Coach Brian Watson, "and unfortunately we had some disciplinary problems that crucial week of the finals."

Watson booted off but later reinstated two runners on the varsity team.

Only one of the area products, Mike White of Livonia Franklin, finished among the top 15 state finishers. Royal Oak Dondero's Jamie Elliott captured the state crown after beating Edsel Ford's Greg Palardy to the wire in a duel which saw the lead exchange several times.

Elliott posted a 15:41.39 to win the coveted gold as compared to the runner-up's 15:42.41 for the silver. Grosse Pointe North had the third best runner in the state in Joe Schmidt who was clocked in 15:43.12.

ser with a strong arm. Rick Wilson is considered by many as the finest quarterback to ever play at John Glenn. He has an exceptional arm and can run if necessary. He has definite college credentials. Chris Merandi is an adequate backup who can also run the team and will throw well but not as far. The big edge is to Glenn.

DEFENSIVE LINE: Both teams play identical defenses and neither defensive lines have proved outstanding, but both must be considered good. Mark Sanford and Chris Whitworth lead the Zebra group and both could play in college. Desi Baumann lead the Rocket contingent. No edge to either team.

LINEBACKERS: Don Forchione is a strong hitter who is all over the field for John Glenn. Kevin Rodriguez does an outstanding job for Wayne. No edge for either team.

DEFENSIVE BACKFIELD: Glenn is sensational here Mike Guillian has already set a school record with seven pass interceptions, Merandi has four, and Mike Dest has four. This trio hits hard and can cover any receiver. Wayne has been porous all year in defensive backfield. Injuries have hurt their ranks and many players have been forced into unfamiliar positions. Kendall Moore has come along well and Vince Patterson has a lot of experience, but Rick Wilson should have fun. The edge is a big one to Glenn.

So, as you can see Glenn should win the game, on paper.

But this game will not be played on paper, but rather on Bill Elliot Field at Wayne High School Friday night at 7:30.

Football is a funny game and intangibles play a big part. The team that plays the best will win regardless of what it says on paper.

Franklin zeroes in on city title

You just don't know what to expect in sports. Ask Livonia Franklin's Armand Vigna, he'll tell you that that's true.

Like last Friday. There he was watching his Patriots go on a rampage the first 12 minutes and score two touchdowns against cross-town rival, Churchill. It looked easy as Franklin built up a 13-0 lead.

However, it was too easy.

Vigna's view from the sidelines was quickly distorted as Churchill never quit. They came back and scored twice to close the gap to 13-12. And that's how the cliffhanger ended as the defense took over the rest of the night.

"It was a lot of fun in the first half. A lot of frustration in the second," pointed out Vigna whose Patriots bring down the grid curtains Saturday at home to another strong crosstown, Bentley.

"When we got those two early TD's I felt that we were going to really be able to handle them this time. But we couldn't do anything in the second half with the exception of stopping their leading runner."

That the Patriots did. Churchill's rushing sensation John Bielis was held to 36 yards for his unfruitful 26 rushes.

Franklin struck early as quarterback Richard Popp engineered a 79-yard, seven play touchdown drive on the Pats' first possession. Popp took it over on a sneak and a 39-yard pass play which involved Rich Wood kept that sustained drive going.

Wood however failed to convert and with 9:39 left to play in the initial quarter the Patriots were up 6-0.

Churchill couldn't mount any sort of offense against its hard-nosed visitors who were getting the most out of their defensive end Shawn Brooks, and tackles Sasho Filipowski and Dean Langley.

Forced to punt, Churchill again returned to its defenses, but again Popp tore it to shreds. Marching 73 yards in 13 plays the next time around, Popp fired a 16-yard touchdown pass to Wood to make it a 12-0 ballgame. Wood then kicked the extra point, which eventually stood up as the difference in this game.

Bielis got the Chargers on the board with 6:55 left in the half when his teammates recovered a mismanaged punt on the Pats' 39 yard line. Churchill made its way to the three where Bielis took over and dashed off tackle into the Franklin end zone.

Steve Tracy was given the opportunity for the conversion but missed.

Churchill got the ball back with 2:11 left and didn't miss an opportunity in its final drive of the half. Quarterback Bill Gavin went to the air and tossed eight passes—one resulted in an interference which kept the drive alive.

With no time left, Gavin's last pass found Brian Lullen clear and the receiver raced 33 yards for the touchdown.

Tracy missed the chance to tie it up. Mike Minielly led all rushers as the Franklin senior chalked up 90 yards in 15 carries. Popp connected on 11 of 17 passes, four of those to Bob Stebbins, for a total of 154 yards.

Romulus needs a miracle

Even Coach Don Foley is ready to admit that his Eagles would need a "miracle" to upset Ypsilanti this week.

"But I believe in miracles," the Romulus High football coach said. "Look what the Dodgers did to the Yanks."

Foley and his troops will invade Ypsilanti Friday night in hopes of snapping a 7-game losing streak. The Braves out at Ypsi are 5-2 on the season. They also have knocked off the then top-rated Ann Arbor Pioneer team.

The Eagles continued their skid last week as a Dearborn Heights Annapolis club, winner of only one of its previous six encounters, rallied to a 32-6 victory in what was Romulus' final home game of the 1981 campaign.

Romulus struck first as Kevin Collins recovered an Annapolis fumble on the Cougar 29-yard line and five plays later John Holifield lunged in from the 2-yard line.

Matt Sullivan's attempt for the point-after failed.

But that was to be the Eagles' only bright spot in a long night that ended with Annapolis scoring on four consecutive possessions and building up a 20-6 lead before claiming the victory 32-6.

Romulus also lost their rugged line-backer-guard Doug Baum to a neck injury. Baum was rushed to the hospital where he is reported in satisfactory condition.

Foley attributed the collapse of his Eagles to the ineptness of the secondary to cope with Annapolis' passing game.

"Our pass defense just fell apart," said Foley. "They hit on 11 of 13 for 222 yards. Hey, you can't win ball games when the opposition does that."

In contrast, Romulus' aerial assault contributed little as Bossory failed to find receivers on all of his seven tries and Sullivan completed two of seven for 19 yards, but three of the senior-QB's passes wound up as interceptions.

Holifield, struggling with a sprained ankle, rushed for 71 yards, and John Rupert chipped in 52.

Eddie Eddings and Kevin Collins proved to be the mainstay on defense. Eddings counted eight solo tackles and two assists, while Collins recovered the fumble that set up the Eagles lone TD and also had seven unassisted and two sacks of the quarterback.

Belleville

"It's very disappointing to lose a game like this," Colletta added. "It's hard to believe that after the victory over Trenton that we were 4-1 and now we're 4-4. But when you figure who we have lost to, it's understandable." (Belleville's losses are to undefeated Edsel Ford, Plymouth Salem and to Monroe.)

A victory over Canton would provide the Tigers with their second consecutive winning season.

A title year

Five of the last seven years Westland John Glenn runners have proven they are among the best if not the best cross country team in the Northwest Suburban Conference. And this year's Rockets made it to the top of the standings thanks to Paul Davis (kneeling, from left), Tom Gibson, Dan Roush, and John Baran; top row are Todd Stockwell, Randy Frank, Coach Jerry Szukaitis, Ray Macika and Pete Stephens.

Glenn tankers jolt Franklin

Westland John Glenn's girls' swimming team got back on the right track last week as the Rockets buried Livonia Franklin 121-51 in a Northwest Suburban dual meet. The victory lifted Glenn's conference mark to 2-1 on the season.

Coach Debbie Sanders' takers swept all 11 first places with Kris Johnston carding a double victory, taking the 200-yard freestyle in 2:20 and the 500-yard freestyle in 6:03. Teammate Robin Gow also captured a pair of events. She was first to the finish line for the 200-yard individual medley (2:37), and the 100-yard freestyle (1:00).

Zajac scores 6 goals in triumph

The four-week victory drought has ended for Benny's Pizzeria.

After logging four consecutive losses in the Berrington Division, Benny's struck for a 7-6 victory over Etronic's to end their skid and move up one notch from the cellar in the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League.

Chuck Heebsh picked up two assists while Tony Ianni, Curtis Oger and Larry Monticello each finished with one.

But it was Dave Zajac's incredible feat — he scored six goals — that turned the tide for the winners. Zajac scored once in the first period, then came back for three in the second and two more in the third period for the most productive night in his Over 30 League career.

Mo Paquette accounted for the remaining Benny's tally.

Ken Howe did his part for Etronic, netting the puck three times for the hat trick with Nick Palise tallying for two goals and one assist. Jim Drewry scored once for Etronic while Tom DiLaura finished the game with three assists. Al Pulk and Terry Boote each picked up two assists. George Sharpe and Roger Wogenske each had one assist. Etronic is still searching for its first victory of the season.

Brock Builders had a field day skating past All Sorts Sports 9-1 as Don Middaugh finished the contest with three goals and one assist. Dennis LaPensee tallied two goals. Makie Adamson and Ken Murray scored once and picked up two assists. Mike Poupore netted the puck for one goal and one assist. Art Cazabon rounded out Brock's

SSCORING.

Larry Kaifesh and Layne Cardinal assisted three goals; Dennis Wysocki collected two assists while Ray LaCorna assisted one goal.

All Sorts Sports' lone goal was scored by Bill McCucker with Paul Cramer assisting.

Jake's Lounge continued in its winning way by defeating Johnson Carbonic 4-2. Jake Davidson finished the game for Jake's with one goal and one assist; Jim O'Gozal, Jerry Peterson and Keith Middaugh tallied a goal apiece. Jim Lear had two assists while Gene Hudson and Mike Forynski picked up one assist.

Mike Villemure and Bob Murray accounted for Johnson Carbonic's two goals; Ron Johnson and Dave Fawkes picked up one assist each.

Don Smith secured his first shutout of the season as Little Bills Trophies rallied to a 9-0 win over Futurama Engineering. Ed Harmon scored two goals and assisted two; Joe Soukup tallied twice and picked up one assist; Paul Briski and Jerry Bular netted the puck once and picked up two assists.

On Sunday, Nov. 8, Family Heating will get a shot at Futurama Engineering at 7:30 p.m. Brock Builders will clash with Little Bill's Trophies at 9 p.m. and Etronic will take on Jake's Lounge at 10:30 p.m. All three contests to be played at the Westland Rink.

In Wayne, Taste Freez and Johnson Carbonic have a 8:30 p.m. game while Benny's Pizzeria and All Sorts Sports will meet at 10 p.m.

Gypsy's final week should be interesting

By THE "FOOTBALL GYPSY"
ANP Special Prognosticator

Pride!

The gypsy got back at some of the scoffers and regained some of his hurt pride last week going 9-3.

In addition, his prediction of an upset by Plymouth Salem over highly-favored and number one state ranked Fordson almost came true, as Fordson pulled out a narrow overtime win.

This week is the end of the line for this years gypsy picks and his job for next season hangs in the balance. The gypsy says.

SAGINAW BUENA VISTA AT INKSTER: The long trip home for Saginaw will be a happy one. The season ends on a sour note for the Vikings. Pick - Saginaw by 14.

PLYMOUTH CANTON AT BELLEVILLE: Both teams have run out of early season steam. Canton would like to get even for last season six overtime loss, and Belleville would like to finish their first winning season in a long time. Pick - Belleville by six.

ROMULUS AT YPSILANTI: It will be a nightmarish end to a nightmarish season for Don Foley and the Eagles. No upset possible here. Pick - Ypsi by 28.

YPSILANTI LINCOLN AT NEW BOSTON HURON: More bad news for the Huron Chiefs. Ypsi Lincoln has a solid club. Pick - Ypsi Lincoln by 8.

LIVONIA BENTLEY AT LIVONIA FRANKLIN: Franklin has to win the award for the guttiest performance of the year. Coach Armand Vigna and his Patriots will finish the season in high-style Pick - Franklin by 2.

LIVONIA STEVENSON AT LIVONIA CHURCHILL: Fans off both teams are in for a good game. Both teams are coming off disappointing losses and both want to finish on a high note. Pick - Stevenson by 1.

REDFORD UNION AT PLYMOUTH SALEM: RU showed early flash, but the loss to John Glenn took some starch out of them. Salem played an outstanding game in a narrow loss to Fordson and could be down a little. Pick - Salem by 3.

CLARENCEVILLE AT CHERRY HILL: Cherry Hill got things untracked last week and should be ready to win again. Pick - Cherry Hill by 1.

WESTLAND JOHN GLENN AT WAYNE MEMORIAL: The Annual Fall Classic, the big game for both squads, and the toughest contest of the year to choose. Records mean nothing. Wayne and Glenn are both coming off wins. Pick - It will be a great game won by Glenn by six.

County comes up with its new budget

Even after surprise announcement of a $1.8 million loss of expected revenue, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners still managed to adopt a new budget eliminating a $20 million deficit as well as reducing anticipated expenditures by an additional $15 million.

Adopted on Oct. 29 for the 1981-82 fiscal year beginning Dec. 1, the budget totals $285.9 million. Last fiscal year it was $301.3 million and included a deficit partially overcome by borrowing on tax anticipation notes and briefly delayed pay for employees and vendors.

Approximately, the new budget is projected on basis of $128.2 million from property taxes, and nearly $156 million from state and federal revenue sharing returns and other funds. The $1.8 million unexpected reduction was from state revenue sharing, which was announced only after a $287.8 million budget was approved by the Board's Ways and Means Committee and put aside for 72 hours as required by state statute before adoption in session of the entire Board of Commissioners.

So annoyed were the commissioners by the state surprise, they also voted to join in a lawsuit against the state to prevent such measures at the same time they approved the new budget. Because in other ways the state announcement also affects finances of most other counties in Michigan, the suit is being prepared by the Michigan Association of Counties although that intent was not known when the idea was authorized in Wayne County after proposal by Commissioner William J. Runco from Dearborn.

Runco first raised the prospect of a suit in a Ways and Means meeting on Oct. 26. Then he asked for a feasibility report of the idea from the Office of Corporation Counsel "to prevent their (state) interference in the county budget process, enabling them to set our policy according to the money available to them to advance to us or withdraw from us."

Later, Runco said, "The state promised us that money, then reduced it after we put it into the budget. How can we have control if we allow them to do that?"

Despite the $1.8 million loss and looming conflict, the county expects no future need for crisis borrowing or delayed paydays or payments to vendors. "We expect this good position to continue next year and in ensuing years," said Board Chairman Samuel A. Turner.

Chief among the reasons for the swift financial turn-around is what county fiscal officers call a "continuation budget."

permitting essentially the same public services while shifting certain major funding and staffing to other jurisdictions. These include:

- A gain of $4.2 million derived from court reorganization resulting in the new 36th District Court and the transfer of 495 jobs from the County to the State.

- $2 million from full state funding of adult probation services and the transfer of 121 positions.

- The combination of these and other changes reducing the county work force by 963 positions, down to 3,903 from 4,500 just since June. Specifically, the reduction comes from 495 court changes, 121 from probation shifts, and 241 funded on an interim basis.

Elimination of the Sheriff's Road Patrol and Investigation Division also contributes substantially — over $5 million more — to funding available for the new budget. Although in appeal before the State Supreme Court, Sheriff William Lucas has honored a lower court in September disbanding the road patrol.

Lucas had maintained the patrol unofficially since February by ordering extensive overtime and assignment of deputies from other units. His efforts to maintain road patrol services are calculated to cost the county about $100,000 per week throughout that period.

Who controls family budget strings?

Can you really make financial decisions or does the economy make them for you?

Many financial decisions you make, depend on the condition of the economy. And, while you can't do much to change that, there are still options open to you, if you know how to take advantage of them.

Before you can make decisions however, you need to gather certain data. Arrange your finances so you can identify patterns and then draw up an effective plan for spending, saving and investing to achieve goals — both long-term and immediate. Realistically consider your earning potential, then think ahead to where you will be in five or ten years.

If you know your net worth, understand cash flow and tax planning, and can function within a workable budget, you should have no trouble making wise decisions.

Assuming that needs such as retirement and college planning are taken care of, you will want to make better use of whatever is left over after the necessities. These decisions would have to be based on your goals and your tax bracket.

Once your financial picture emerges clearly, you need to know how to read key economic indicators, such as the Dow Jones Average and the Consumer Price Index.

Most economic indicators hint that inflation is here to stay, but don't really answer such questions as how fast it will rise or how it affects interest rates, the stock market, the number of homes to be built or unemployment rates.

Although inflation pushes up prices, it has some advantages, for example, borrowing makes sense during inflation because it allows you to pay back with cheaper dollars. Commodities, collectibles and metals may be wise investments in periods of inflation. You might decide to borrow to invest, because the time to incur long-term debt, if you can afford it, is when you anticipate an accelerating inflation rate.

In spite of this, the richest stock market rewards may occur just before an inflation rate starts to decline, leading you to possibly invest in stock or mutual funds.

During inflation, there are decisions you need to make about your cash management. For example, leaving cash in a checking and savings account may not be wise, when you can "lend" your money out at high interest rates. Emergency funds are better off in a day-of-deposit-day-of-withdrawal account, or a money market fund with check writing privileges. If you worry about checks bouncing, apply for overdraft privileges.

Keeping aware of developments affecting the economy is the only way a family can learn when to make financial decisions so they can not only keep up with inflation, but manage to get ahead. For instance, when interest rates fall, the stock market usually improves because it reduces the attractiveness of money markets and bonds.

In addition, the Consumer Price Index may indicate that the overall cost of living has increased 12 percent, but that the cost of apparel has not. That could be the time to buy your new wardrobe.

Township of Huron Notice of Public Hearing

Notice Is Hereby Given that the Huron Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Nov. 30, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. in the Huron Township Office, 37290 Huron River Drive, New Boston, MI 48164, on the following:
Amend Ordinance No. 20 as follows:

A) Ordinance No. 20, Sections 11.20.01, 12.20.01, and 14.20.01, are amended as follows:

01. Single-family detached dwellings, including mobile homes when located outside of mobile home parks, except that mobile homes are subject to the requirements of Section 41.70.00.

B) Article XLI is amended to add a new Section 41.70.00 as follows:
70.00. REGULATION FOR MOBILE HOMES LOCATED OUTSIDE OF MOBILE HOME PARKS:

01. INTENT. While mobile homes offer an alternative to conventional single family housing in such areas as structural design, facility arrangement and cost, they can have potential adverse impacts on a residential neighborhood because of marked differences from single family housing in design, placement, structure and site size, and fire and wind resistance. Generally, mobile homes have been restricted to locations within mobile home parks, positioned at areas specifically zoned for them, in order to assure compatibility with nearby residential uses. However, through the application of certain standards, mobile homes and mobile home sites may be designed to more closely resemble nearby conventional housing and be permitted outside mobile home parks and within residential zoning districts. This Section presents specific conditions and standards whereby mobile homes may be located outside of mobile home parks.

02. LOCATION. Mobile homes may be located outside of mobile home parks provided that they are located in zoning districts which permit them and further subject to site plan approval by the Planning Commission in accordance with Article XLII.

03. COMPATIBILITY IN APPEARANCE. To insure compatibility in appearance with single family housing in the neighborhood, a mobile home shall meet the following design requirements:

A. Roof—Must be pitched, minimum 3:12 slope, and shingled, with a minimum roof overhang of six (6) inches on all sides. Roof must be permanently attached to the mobile home and supported by the mobile home, rather than by external supports. Additions and accessory buildings may have flat roofs, but unattached accessory buildings must satisfy the same roof requirements as the mobile home.

B. Exterior walls—Must have wood, aluminum or vinyl siding and/or brick facing for all exterior walls, including additions and accessory buildings.

C. Eave troughs—Must be provided where appropriate.

D. Ceiling height—Minimum seven feet six inches (7'6") for all rooms.

E. Doors/Windows—Must be similar in design to single family housing. A minimum of two (2) exterior doors is required.

F. Steps—Must be permanently attached on a frost-depth foundation similar to single family housing requirements, and connected to the exterior door areas or to porches connected to said door areas where a difference in elevation requires the same.

04. CONSTRUCTION STANDARDS. Except as otherwise noted herein, minimum construction standards for a mobile home shall be those of the Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 (Title VI of P.U.L. 93-383, 88 Stat. 700, 42 U.S.C. 5401, et. seq.), and the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards effective June 15, 1976, as amended.

05. FOUNDATION. A mobile home must be installed on a permanent foundation. As a minimum, this foundation shall include a cement block or poured foundation, not less than forty two (42) inches below the finished exterior grade extending around the complete outside perimeter of the mobile home, and shall satisfy the same construction standards as for single family housing. Further, there shall be provided a twenty (20) inch crawl space below the bottom of the floor, twelve (12) inches of which may be below finished exterior grade. The crawl space shall not be utilized for storage purposes. A basement satisfying the same standards as for single family housing, in accordance with applicable Township adopted codes and ordinances, may be substituted for the forty two (42) inch cement block or poured foundation. If the foundation or basement does not meet the mobile home manufacturer's specifications for pillar placement and imposed load capacity, adequate additional support shall be provided as specified in R 125.1602 of the Michigan Administrative Code. Wheels, axles and towing mechanisms shall be removed.

06. UNIT SIZE/ADDITIONS. A mobile home, prior to any addition, shall have a minimum length of no less than forty (40) feet. That portion of the mobile home facing a public street shall have a minimum width of twenty four (24) feet with no one (1) face being less than twenty (20) feet. The minimum floor area requirements for a mobile home, including additions, shall correspond to the minimum floor area requirements for the zoning district in which the mobile home is located. Any additions to a mobile home must either be constructed by a licensed mobile home manufacturer or satisfy the applicable Township-adopted code and ordinances for single family residences. Any addition must be similar in appearance, materials and foundation to the mobile home itself. Any addition to a mobile home is subject to the same review procedures of this Section as for the mobile home itself.

07. ANCHORING. A mobile home shall be anchored by an anchoring system meeting the standards and specifications of R 125.1605 of the Michigan Administrative Code.

08. LOT SIZE AND COVERAGE/BUILDING HEIGHT/YARD SETBACKS. The minimum requirements for lot width and area, lot coverage, building height, yard setbacks and floor space per dwelling unit shall be the same as those required for single family housing in the zoning district wherein the mobile home is located, except that where the following minimum mobile home placement requirements are more stringent than the applicable zoning district placement requirements for single family housing, the following minimum requirements shall apply:

A. Twenty (20) feet from any dwelling unit on an adjoining lot.

B. Ten (10) feet from any parking space on an adjoining lot.

C. Ten (10) feet from any structure on an adjoining lot which is not used for living purposes.

09. UTILITY LINES/HOOKUPS. All utility and service lines, including water, sewer, telephone, electricity, heating and cooking fuels and television service, shall be located underground, except in instances where the majority of single family residences in the neighborhood are served by above-ground lines for the particular service. Utility and service lines, except for electrical and natural gas, shall be designed for permanent attachment to the mobile home using, wherever feasible, the same designs and specifications as for single family housing in accordance with applicable Township-adopted codes and ordinances. Where the Planning Commission deems that said code and ordinance requirements are not feasible for mobile homes, the Planning Commission may permit standards as described in R 125.1603 and R 125.1932 to R 125.1940 of the Michigan Administrative Code. An exterior water faucet is required.

10. ELECTRICAL SERVICE. Electrical service installation shall be in accordance with R 125.1932 and R 125.1933 of the Michigan Administrative Code. The electrical service pedestal shall be screened from view from the adjoining street by the mobile home itself or by opaque ornamental fencing.

11. NATURAL GAS SERVICE. Natural gas service installation shall be in accordance with R 125.1934 of the Michigan Administrative Code. The natural gas service pedestal shall be screened from view from the adjoining street by the mobile home itself or by opaque ornamental fencing.

12. FUEL TANKS/CONTAINERS. If permitted by the Planning Commission, fuel oil systems shall comply with R 125.1939 of the Michigan Administrative Code. Liquefied petroleum gas containers and fuel oil tanks, if permitted by the Planning Commission, shall be installed, mounted and secured in compliance with the National Fire Protection Association's 1974 Standard for Mobile Homes 501B, Part D, Chapter 4, paragraphs 4.2.3. and 4.3, adopted herein by reference. Above ground fuel tanks/containers shall be screened from view from the adjoining street by the mobile home itself, by enclosure in a storage shed or by opaque ornamental fencing.

13. STORAGE FACILITIES. A garage, storage shed and/or basement, or combinations thereof may be located on the same site as the mobile home and be constructed according to the same standards as for the mobile home itself or for single family housing in accordance with applicable Township-adopted codes and ordinances.

14. SIDEWALKS/DRIVEWAYS/PARKING. A mobile home site shall comply with the same Township-adopted codes and ordinances relative to sidewalk, driveway and parking placement, sizing and construction as for single family housing.

15. FENCING. A mobile home site shall comply with the same Township-adopted codes and ordinances relative to fencing as for single family housing.

A copy of Zoning Ordinance No. 20, including the text, and official map, and the petitioner's request may be examined at the Township Office during business hours from 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. and from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. on weekdays until the date of public hearing. Written comments concerning this request will be received at the Township from the date of this publication until the date of hearing.

Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area. Second, the DEP enables McGrath to wrap up his personal affairs before leaving home.

McGrath will enter the Regular Air

Force on Jan. 18. Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the administrative aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.
